County heads to the midway

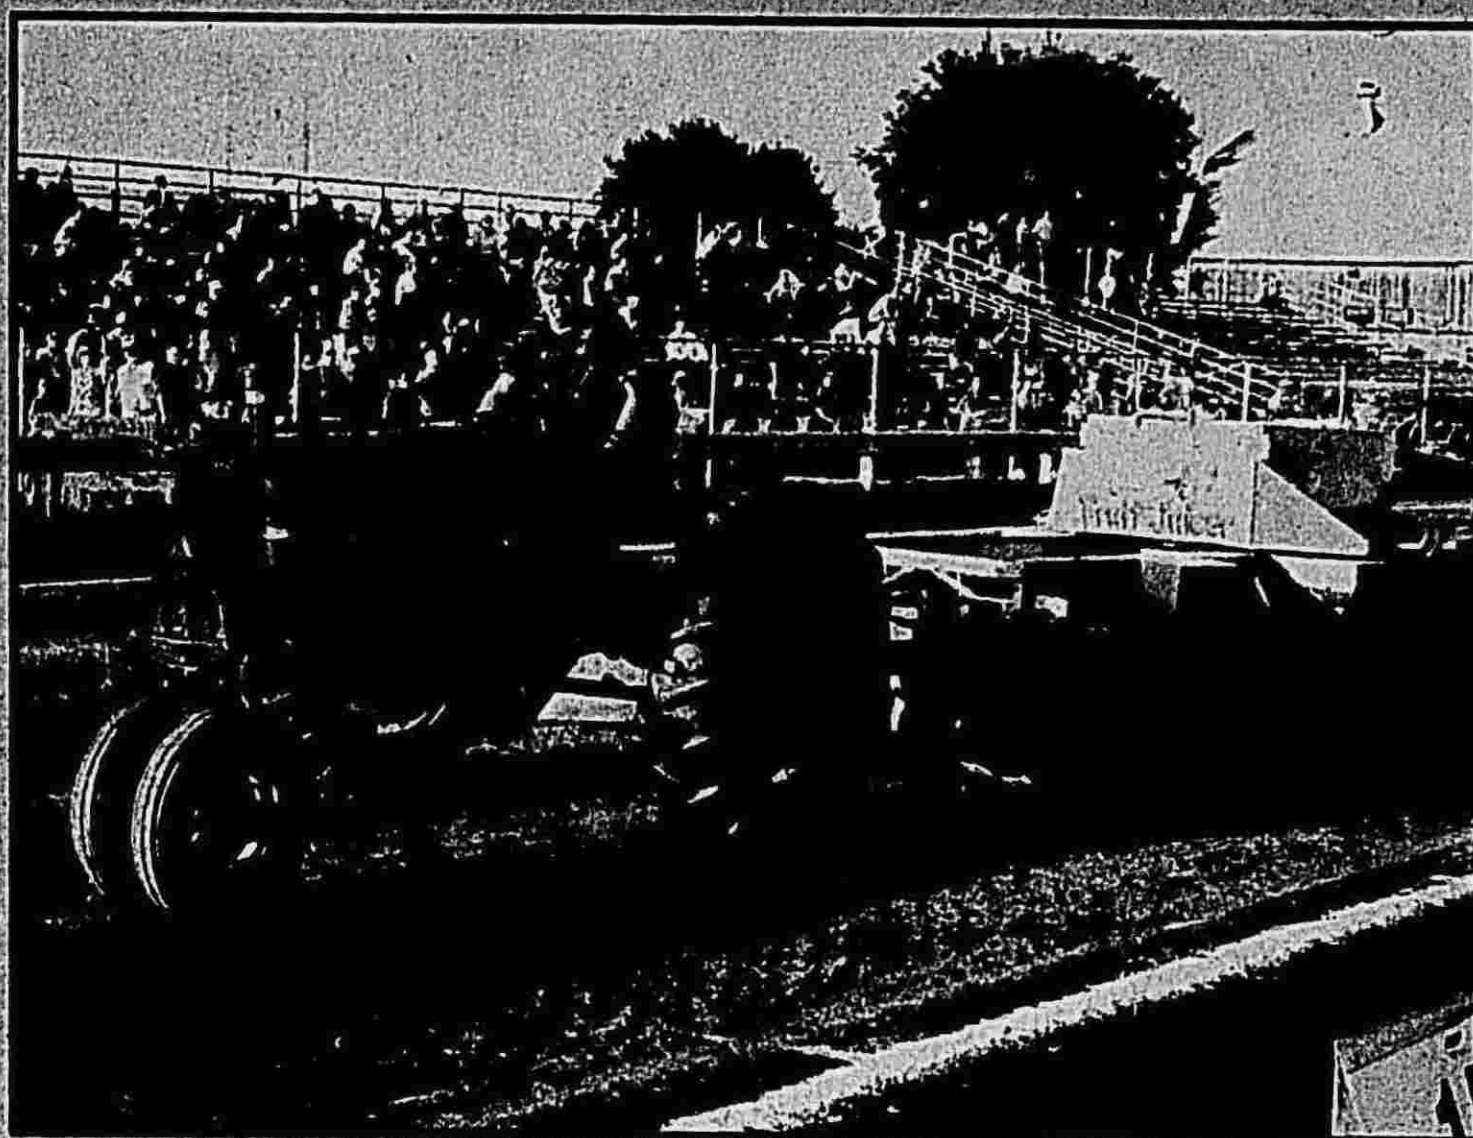

The 66th Annual Lake County Fair opens bright and early Wednesday morning. With an action-packed daily schedule of special events, exhibits and carnival rides the fair offers something for everyone.

Visitors can learn more about farming, explore their roots, catch some fast-paced action on the speedway and enjoy the rides.

Additionally, Miss Lake County and Little Miss Lake County will be crowned and a variety of acts will grace the stage in the annual talent show. A new event to the fair this year is the first Compact Car Figure 8 Demolition Derby scheduled in the rodeo arena, Wednesday evening.

A special youth horse show will be held on Friday and later in the evening don't miss the non-sanctioned antique tractor pull followed by the super farm tractor pull.

A complete guide to the fair is included in this week's paper.

Two die in early morning crash

Two men died early Saturday morning in a fatal crash on Route 173 in Antioch. The cause of the accident is not known.

The driver, Gordon Ellul, 30, of Frankfurt, Ill. and Timothy Snyder, age 31, of Lake Villa, both died Sunday in a Milwaukee hospital as a result of their injuries. "The injuries were substantial," said Lieutenant Charles Watkins of the Antioch Police Department.

Police are still investigating the cause of the accident. "From the scene of the accident, it appears the vehicle, which was traveling east bound, slowly drifted off the road," said Watkins. The car apparently traveled 200 feet on the shoulder of the road before hitting a tree. "There were no skid marks," added Watkins.

"The only marks we saw were the marks in the gravel as they traveled along the shoulder," explained Watkins. "There was no evidence of any braking."

Blood samples were taken at the hospital and toxicology tests will be performed by the coroner's office. The results should be back in a few weeks.

The accident occurred approximately .2 of a mile east of Savage Road. The car, a 1988 See CRASH page A10

Behind the scenes, the work goes on

Antioch residents probably don't give much thought to the public works department, that is, until something goes wrong. But, the backbone of Antioch, or any village, are the public works employees.

Up and at work at 7:30 a.m., the 22 permanent and four summer employees put in a hard day's work to keep the drinking water safe, the roads smooth and clean, while maintaining all village buildings and vehicles.

"Summer is busy, but winter is hectic when it is snowing," explained Bill Smith, Antioch Public Works superintendent. "In the summer we have all the grass and the special events. The special events kill us."

Antioch Public Works has three departments: Sewer and Water, Streets Department, and Building and Maintenance. Mike Ruxton heads up the sewer and water department. Ruxton holds a class one and two operators license. "I am also a licensed plumber," Ruxton added.

The special service district would provide sewers to areas shaded on the above map which includes Old Mill Creek and a section of Antioch proposed for development.

Special service area clears hurdle

STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Lake County board members will consider the special service district which will serve Abbott Laboratories' Old Mill Creek site at an August meeting.

County board members, by a 20-0 vote and without discussion, approved an amended agreement with Abbott Labs, setting in place the special service district financing. The villages of Old Mill Creek and Antioch had approved the district by resolution.

"This is good for everyone involved. It might not happen for another 10 years," Robert Neal (R-Wadsworth), said. "It gives us a chance to shut down an obsolete facility at Grandwood Park."

"I think it will be fair. We can always make it less, but we could not make it higher if we find out costs are more than expected," board member Debra Halas (D-Waukegan), said.

Abbott sent Lake County Board Chairman Robert Depke a letter supporting the district.

"We have had an opportunity to review the current draft of an ordinance proposing the Northeast Lake Special Service Area and providing a public hearing and other procedures. We agree with the allocations attributed to Abbott," Danel O. Struble, vice president of corporate engineering said.

Abbott's cost, based on a draft document, for the interceptor sewer will be an amount not to exceed $3,124,000. "The county and Abbott have further agreed that Abbott will receive a credit of $84,464 against the share of the wastewater treatment plant cost in recognition of the $150,000 seed money contribution Abbott made to this project. Thus the Abbott share of the phase I-A wastewater treatment plant will not exceed $1,850,000," Struble said.

Marilyn Shineflug, Antioch mayor, said the density in the area benefited by the sewer and will be less than two units to the acre.

"The special service area will increase the value of the property," she said.

Antioch approved the special district by a 5-0 vote with one trustee absent. The county could not include incorporated areas without permission of municipalities.

Shineflug said the village, as per an agreement with the Anest property owners, had to attempt to obtain sewer service or the area could have been considered for Lindenhurst.

Farmers Picnic coming soon

The annual Lions Club Chicken Barbecue and Auction, sponsored also by the Antioch Rescue Squad, has set a date. This extremely well attended event will be held Sunday, Aug. 7.

The Lions and the Antioch Rescue Squad have a long history together. The Lions have supported the squad for more than 50 years.

In 1946, the Lions began active solicitation for funds for the squad. The following year, the Lions established a fund for the financing of the squad.

In 1972, the rescue squad members joined a statewide training program for paramedics. This pilot program was partially sponsored by the Antioch Lions Club. Assisted by local doctors and Victory Memorial Hospital, the rescue squad was thus able to provide immediate aid to victims of illness and emergency.

Prior to 1974, the entire proceeds of the BBQ and Auction were donated to the rescue squad. Now, the squad profits from the auction and the Lions apply the profits from the BBQ to their many worthwhile projects such as helping the blind, hearing impaired, and diabetics.—by Mary Foley

Officials take a trip on future Metra rail line

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Village officials came a little closer to April of 1996 as they rode the rails during a preview run of the planned Metra rail line.

Officials who took the ride included Mayor Marilyn Shineflug, Trustees Marvin Oldenburger, Wayne Foresta and Dorothy Larson, along with Village Administrator Tim Wells, and former Superintendent Donald Skidmore.

"I have never seen the town from this angle," commented Skidmore as the train rolled into Antioch.

"Isn't it nice?" asked Shineflug. "It really looks nice."

On the preview trip, the train ran from Union Station in Chicago through Antioch, up to Silver Lake where the engine was reversed in order to push the train instead of pull. The trip, sponsored by Metra, Wisconsin Central, and the Northwest Municipal Conference, added a bit of reality to what has been, so far, a plan on paper.

Speaking of plans, the board has yet to approve the preliminary plans for the railroad station in Antioch. However, progress is underway.

One of the problems with the station project is the Wisconsin Central tracks are a higher elevation than the surrounding area. The board last month voted to have a system of ramps built to avoid the heavy costs of building up the parking lot.

According to John Boldt, village engineer, approximately 20 steps will be needed. "The difference in the elevation is 4 to 5 feet," explained Boldt. The ramps would be built in such a way that everyone would have access to the station.

The board also voted to eliminate the bus turn-around from the lot plans. "We may not need a bus turn-around," said Boldt. "We can have an exit to the north." The plans currently call for 64 regular and three handicapped spots.

The new station and lot does have a hefty price tag. It is estimated that $400,000 to $450,000 will need to be spent on the parking lot and depot.

The estimated use of the train at the Antioch location in 1998 will be roughly 50 people per day. This estimated number jumps to 100 in the year 2010.

Village officials take a break in Silver Lake, Wis., on the preview trip of the new commuter line that will run from Antioch to O'Hare, then onto Chicago's Union Station. On the platform is Mayor Marilyn Shineflug and Heather Gaffney of Metra. Stepping down from the train is Village Administrator Tim Wells, Prospect Heights Village Administrator Ken Border, and Antioch Trustee Dorothy Larson.—Photo by Mary Foley

Many college scholarships are available

Each year individuals preparing to go to college or graduate school face the dilemma of how to pay for tuition, room and board, text books, lab fees and other expenses. That's because college costs have skyrocketed and continue to increase yearly, putting extra strain on family budget and assets.

Yet there are over 375,000 funding sources available to assist these students. Contrary to popular belief, over 80 percent of the funds available to students do not depend on family need or high grades. Many are based on factors such as the student's interests, hobbies, academic focus, age, ethnic background or parent's work or military service.

Remarkably, over $6.6 billion of this funding goes uncollected each year simply because people do not ask for it according to a report by the National Commission on Student Financial Aid. Now a new academic funding publication, updated for 1994 is available to help students through the process and to outline their options and identify sources for assistance.

For information on how to receive academic funding and scholarships, send a No. 10 self addressed, double stamped envelope plus $1 to cover handling to the National Academic Funding Administration, 26 Coe Dr., Suite 1300, Durham, NH 03824.

$300 Scholarship available at CLC

Youth ballplayers taught more than sports

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

Some young girls learned more than baseball techniques, teamwork, and good sportsmanship this year in the Antioch Youth Baseball League. As a result of a roster mix-up, a few girls in the 10 through 12 softball division, also had a lesson in coping with disappointment.

The problem centered around the annual All-Star game. Because of rule changes and a mix-up on the roster, girls who had been told they were selected to play on the all-star team, were notified the night before the game they were no longer on the team.

"I was crying when they told me," said Angela Garson, a former Lindenhurst resident and member of the team. "I went to the first game anyway and sat in the stands."

When the coaches received the team roster, they discovered that some of the best players in the league had been listed as alternates. Unfortunately, the only way to change the roster is to have someone removed.

Coaches are not permitted to just replace or exchange players.

According to one of the All-Star coaches, Dennis Dyer, one of the problems was a rule change which actually altered the amount of players. "The rules changed and they no longer allowed a short center," said Dyer. "We got the rules only a few days before the tournament."

Another problem was the restriction not to allow 10-year-olds to play. Dyer said he had not been aware of the restriction and one 10-year-old had been allowed to play in the first game before he learned of the problem.

While learning to cope with disappointment is an important life lesson, parents of the girls feel that the problem should have been handled in a different way. Karen Livasy, a social worker, and mother of one of the disappointed girls, is angry.

"She earned her place on that team," said Livasy. "She spent hours at home practicing. It is just not fair."

"My daughter was on the line-up. At 10 minutes after 10 p.m., I got a call that Brandy was off the line-up," Livasy continued. "He wanted me to tell her. I woke her up and put her on the line so that he could tell her himself."

Laura Garson, Angela's mother, wants an apology and hopes that these problems will not occur again. "I hope this will not happen again to someone else's children," said Garson. "They (the coaches) were the ones who should have known the rules."

"I can't fault them for being angry," said Dyer. This was Dyer's first experience as an All-Star coach. "I told them I felt very badly and that I will be sending a letter of apology."

Where to?

If someone were to give you the money needed for a vacation of your choice, where would you choose to go? How many of you are thinking Hawaii? Did you ever stop to think where Hawaiians vacation? Well, I have the answer to that question. The answer is Eagle River, Wisconsin.

As we sat enjoying our dinner in one of our favorite Eagle River restaurants, I noticed a Hawaiian family dining at the next table.

Being the nosy person that I am, I began to listen to bits and pieces of their conversation.

Mom managed a Ramada Inn resort in Hawaii and dear old dad managed another Hawaiian resort. When they feel the need to get away from it all, they go to the beautiful north woods to relax, fish and enjoy the cooler weather. I think there is a message to be learned here, perhaps "The grass is always greener on the other side of the hill!"

Thank you

I extend a warm, appreciative thank you to five-year-old Tricia Pringle of Antioch, who recently sent me a picture of her and I taken during our graduation activities at Camp Crayon.

Tricia, you looked beautiful on the picture and so grown up in your beautiful yellow and white party dress. On the other hand, we won't mention my appearance. Maybe someday I will remember to diet, at least before special occasions.

I will treasure the picture forever and keep it safe in the beautiful "Tricia Album" mom prepared especially for each of us. Continue to enjoy the rest of the summer, help mom with little Stephanie, help auntie with her new baby, say hi to cousin Jennifer and knock them dead in kindergarten at Grass Lake School. You are special and don't ever forget it—I know I won't!

Please call

I know you are all busy enjoying the lazy days of summer. I have no problem with this. However, as you relax, you are also forgetting to call me with your special tidbits. Remember this is your column and without your phone calls and special notes, there would be no Hometown Goodies. I basically lead a boring, uneventful life. Therefore, I now give a reminder to all my readers as to what "Hometown Goodies" is all about.

As you all know, it is basically about fun. To be more exact it is about birthdays, special anniversaries, retirements, births, weddings, class reunions, school accomplishments, local sporting highlights, town happenings, school functions, family reunions, cute children stories, welcoming new neighbors, animal/pet stories.

Vacation highlights, baby and wedding showers, fund raisers, get-well wishes, parades, grand openings, comical bloopers, success stories of any kind, parties, social events, town history, etc. Basically let your imagination run wild, give me a call and when you do, remember to ask for "The Lizard". I'll be waiting.

Agency receives first ever decade dredging permit

TINA L. SWIECH
Staff Reporter

The Chairman of the Fox-Waterway Agency was delighted upon hearing news of the issuance of a 10-year permit.

"We worked on this for over a year," said Dr. William C. Dam. "This is exciting."

Two permits were received from the U.S. Army Corps July 14, a day to go down in history as this has never been done before.

"I think it shows the Corps confidence in the agency," said executive director Karen Kabbes.

The two permits, one for raking and the other for dredging the waterways, will "definitely" save money for the agency, and time for both the agency and the Corps.

For several years the agency has been dredging and raking different areas of the Chain and the Fox River, and each time, obtaining a permit was an easy task. However, the agency had to deal with a considerable lag time.

"In the past, we had to wait for the Corps to put out a public notice," explained Kabbes about each permit. "That takes 20 to 30 days."

The idea for the 10-year permit good until Dec. 31, 2004 came about when the Corps decided it could save some work by issuing just one for the next decade.

Every late fall or early winter, the agency plans to go through a proposal with the Corps about the work to be performed the next year.

In order to preserve the fishes spawning time in early spring, the agency has agreed not to do any dredging until after June 1 of each year.

This was determined after public comments came back from concerned homeowners, the Illinois Department of Conservation, and state, federal, and local officials.

Several other issues were also pointed out by Kabbes. At least seven days prior to any dredging, the Agency must submit the following for approval by the Corps: schedule of work, site plan(s), location of dredge material disposal site, existing and proposed cross-sections of the channel or area proposed to dredge including shoreline character, quantity of material to be removed, proposed use of the dredge materials, and location and type of truck/equipment access.

Plans after the dredging operations area is completed at each site, must be submitted to the Corps. As-built plans will include amount of material removed, type of material (gravel, sand, silt, etc.) removed, type of material remaining in channel and channel depth.

The two years before Dam was chairman, the agency did not receive a single permit. Kabbes has been given a lot of credit, and so have others. "People are working," the chairman explained simply. "They're working very cooperatively and in a collaborative effort."

Kabbes said the Agency will still have to prepare a lot of documents, but it's going to be well worth it.

Off to the circus parade —FROM THE CAPITAL—

Eugene Schwiager, an Antioch resident, was off to the circus this weekend. Schwiager and his team of four Clydesdales took part in the Great Circus Parade. The parade is held in Milwaukee on July 17.

Schwiager drove his team of horses pulling the Sparks Sea Serpent Tableau wagon in the two-hour pageant. It was the first appearance for Schwiager in the event.

The parade features more than 700 draft and riding horses of various breeds pulling antique circus wagons or carrying parade participants. The parade was taped for PBS.

Several hundred thousand spectators line the three-mile route in downtown Milwaukee each July to witness the authentic re-creation of the traditional street procession. Included in the parade are animals, bands, and performers. The parade re-enacts days long-ago when the circus would come to town.

The Great Circus Parade centers around 70 beautifully restored old circus wagons from the collection housed at the Circus World Museum in Baraboo, Wis. The horse drawn wagons, some more than a century old, are grandly escorted by a horde of elephants and other exotic animals.

Clowns, costumes, bands and more than 2,000 circus "performers" were on hand to delight on-lookers. The colorful cavalcade marches to the stirring tempo of brass wagon top bands, snappy high school marching ensembles, and crack military musical units.

A to Z proposal would cut spending

US Cong. Phillip M. Crane (R)

Liberal spenders in the House are nervously watching efforts to get the so-called "A to Z Spending Cuts Plan" legislation to the floor for consideration. House leaders have successfully blocked moves to allow members to vote on the plan. It would force the House of Representatives to conduct a 56-hour special session during which any member could propose a single cut in federal spending. Each spending cut proposal would be debated and voted on, in one hour. Thus, 56 proposed spending cuts could be acted on by the House in a session that could last just a week.

It is called "A to Z" after its sponsors, Democrat Robert Andrews of New Jersey and Republican Bill Zeff of New Hampshire. House leaders have blocked consideration of the measure, forcing its backers to fight to gain the necessary 218 signatures on a discharge petition to pry the legislation from the control of the Rules Committee and send it to the floor of the House. Over 200 signatures have been obtained so far. One can imagine the possibilities of spending cuts if the measure goes before the House members.

Pork barrel projects could be put before members on a straight up or down vote...not tied to massive pieces of legislation and not taken up for final consideration on their own merits. Controversial subsidies would be at risk. But liberals would have their moment in court, too. They would be provided the opportunity to force a direct vote on defense items they object to. Should the measure reach the floor and be judged a success by members, future Congresses would not have to confine "A to Z" session to but one time a year. There could be any number of these money-cutting attempts.

The president calls for cooperation on his legislation from members of the minority party and then he proceeds to make it impossible for me to support the legislation. An example is his welfare reform plan. He promised he would "end welfare as we know it," and that certainly has my support. But, unfortunately, when his measure was sent over from the White House, it looked like the same old story.

It called for an increase of over $2 billion in welfare spending, whereas the minority party welfare plans put spending caps on major welfare spending programs. He does little to attack illegitimacy. The Republican plan calls for the need to stop cash subsidies for illegitimate children, while continuing to provide food and medical coverage for mothers and children. The president would continue welfare for aliens, while the minority plan would cut off welfare for legal and illegal aliens.

We failed again this year to abolish the National Endowment for the Arts by cutting off federal funding for the agency. However, we did pick up additional support this year as 113 members supported our position that funding the arts is unconstitutional. In 1787, at the Constitutional Convention in Philadelphia, the Founding Fathers opposed spending taxpayer dollars for the arts. We were successful this year in chopping $3.4 million from the $171.1 million the House Appropriations Committee approved for the agency. While I introduced legislation based on the unconstitutional nature of the agency, I was also very concerned over some of the controversial projects which have been funded by the NEA. We also pointed out that private contributions to the arts in the United States last year amounted to over $9 billion, and there was no need for additional taxpayer dollars. Rest assured, I will continue the drive to end this expenditure of tax money.

Crane says 'no' to Haiti invasion

Eighth District Congressman Philip M. Crane today said the Clinton Administration should not use the latest developments in Haiti as an excuse to invade that nation.

"There has been renewed talk of invading Haiti as a result of that government's order that the United Nations and the Organization of American States remove their human rights observers," the congressman declared.

"The problem in Haiti is an internal matter that only the Haitians can solve," the congressman said.

Under no circumstances should the United States military become involved in this affair.

"It would do well to look at U.S.-Haitian history. American troops went in back in 1915, and they remained in Haiti until 1934," Congressman Crane reported.

The congressman's declaration came in the wake of Haiti's military leaders ordering 100 U.N. and OAS human rights monitors to immediately leave Haiti.

Antioch school against unit school

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Antioch elementary school district has voiced its opposition to the current Lake Villa unit district petition fearing that a division of assets would be financially detrimental to the Antioch schools.

Based on the financial data, Antioch Community Consolidated District 34 Board of Education, unanimously approved a request to Ed Gonwa, regional superintendent, for the denial of the Lake Villa Unit District formation petition. After the public hearings were held at the College of Lake County last week, Gonwa has another week before he is required to make a decision.

After two days of testimony, the battle lines were drawn. While unit school backers attempted to show the benefits of the new school district in Lake Villa Township, opponents including Millburn School District and District 34, highlighted the financial hardships those districts would face if the plan was approved.

The new district is roughly planned within Lake Villa Township boundaries and would include kindergarten through grade 12. Supporters of the plan want to have the issue placed on the ballot in November.

New Superintendent Dr.

Daniel Burke and former Superintendent Donald Skidmore (now the school's business manager), developed a position paper which they submitted to Gonwa's office representing District 34's viewpoint.

"Antioch Community Consolidated School District 34 is not opposed to the concept of this unit district per se; rather we are opposed to the way this unit district is being proposed, specifically as it relates to the division of assets."

"Major issues regarding the division of assets and the impact of that division on our school district have not been adequately addressed, we believe, because the consolidation laws under which this proposal is operating were not written with this type of consolidation in mind," the position paper continued.

Specifically, the district is concerned about how the new district will be financed and how it will impact Antioch taxpayers. The district questions how taxpayers will be informed of their "actual costs associated with the division of assets," particularly in advance of the November election.

Burke and Skidmore attempted to calculate taxpayer cost. "Thus, if approved, Antioch District 34 would owe the newly formed unit district a total of $2.13 million," they estimated. It is believed that the district cannot issue bonds to pay for the division of assets and must instead hold a public referendum. "Given the current climate regarding property taxes, a successful referendum is unlikely," they said.

If the district becomes obligated to pay for the division of assets without referendum funds, they would be required to deplete existing fund balances or current revenue. According to the position paper, at the end of the '94 fiscal year, the district had $2.31 million in the education fund and working cash fund.

The division of assets would eliminate the entire education fund and tear into the working cash fund, leaving only a balance of $185,000. By doing this, programs at the schools would have to be cut. The district is estimating it will lose roughly $90,000 of interest income annually if they are unable to invest cash reserves. This represents the loss of three teaching positions.

The district would also have to issue Tax Anticipation Warrants during the spring of '95-'96, as they wait to receive tax funding. Interest on the warrants could run as high as $15,000 to $25,000 a year.

One of the possible solutions to the problem, suggested by Burke and Skidmore, is to simultaneously seek voter approval of bond issues along with a yes vote for the new unit district. Under those conditions, the district would withdraw its objection to the unit district plan.

Township plans seminar on energy conservation

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Just because the Antioch Township board decided not to sign a Citizens Against Unsafe Electricity (CAUSE) resolution endorsing more efficient energy usage, does not mean the township has no commitment to the measure. Sometime in September, Commonwealth Edison and the Township will sponsor a seminar that will include a helpful kit to help residents reduce their energy usage.

According to Township Supervisor Jim Fields, while Commonwealth Edison no longer makes up the energy kits, Joe Trexler, spokesman from the company, said they have enough on-hand.

"In September, Commonwealth Edison will come here to hold an energy conservation program," said Fields. "They will also have energy conservation kits to distribute."

While an exact date has not been set, Fields said it will not be held on a regular meeting date. More information will be provided in the next township newsletter, which is mailed in conjunction with the Village of Antioch newsletter.

Last month, the township board rejected a request from CAUSE to approve a resolution. CAUSE is currently embroiled in a dispute with Commonwealth Edison regarding the need for additional overhead powerlines.

The board rejected the resolution because it includes verbiage regarding issues not controlled by the township such as building codes. The board suggested if the wording of the resolution was changed, they would consider approving it.

street department. This is the department that is in charge of road patching, curb repairs, signs, and line painting. They also sweep the streets.

The building and maintenance department maintains all of the village buildings as well as vehicle maintenance. "There are a lot of cars," said Smith, who heads that department. "We have 57 vehicles."

While there are separate departments, all employees are ready and able to pitch in whenever help is needed. "It is a great little group," said Smith. "Everybody knows how to plow snow, fix water main breaks, and patch the streets."

That kind of flexibility is what is needed to run a top-notch public works department. During the interview, workers found a gas leak at the Scout House on Main Street. While they waited for the gas company, Smith sent an employee to stand guard to keep children away and stop anyone from smoking nearby.

A big help to the department is the computer. "The computer really helps with preventative maintenance," explained Smith. "We record all of the mileage of the village vehicles. The computer will flash when maintenance is necessary."

Besides the regular duties of the department, special events add to their workload. From stringing Christmas lights in November to cleaning up after Taste of Antioch, the Antioch Public Works Department keep Antioch the safe, clean and beautiful village it is famous for.

Avon teams score well in softball action

Avon and Antioch All-Star softball teams conquered District 16 preliminary action during regional play at the Avon Little League Complex.

Antioch, Avon, Grant and Mundelein sent their All-Stars to the double elimination tournament.

Antioch nipped Grant 17-16. Antioch hurler Jamie Silarski garnered the win. She was backed up by Kelli Periman and Lisa Murphy, each connecting for two hits.

Avon dominated the Mundelein All-Stars with a 26-14 victory. Laura Smith pitched her team to victory. Three players came through with three hits a piece, including Kristy Nichols, Emily Frank and Keeley Pemble.

Mundelein was later eliminated by Grant 26-9. Carrie Knack pitched for the win, while Shelly Beyer had four hits in the game for Grant.

Antioch and Avon squared off against each other Tuesday. Loser of that game faced Grant for third place honors on Wednesday. The championship game was scheduled for Thursday and, if need be, Friday.

The winner of the District 16 regional advances to sectional play at Antioch July 23-24.

TRI-COUNTY ALL-STARS

In Tri-County softball action, the Avon team slipped by Antioch 9-8.

Anne Robinson captured the win on the mound for Avon.

Offense standouts included Tonya Hopkins who went 4-5, Tina Meyer who went 2-3 and Erin Lopez who went 2-3.

Playing solid defense for Avon were Jamie DeAndrea, Jenny Schmidt and Kristy Niemczyk.

Lake Villa Bronco to compete for state trophy

After concluding a 20-1 season in league play and 38-10 overall, the Lake Villa Bronco Travelers qualified for the state tournament in Rockford July 21-24.

Before practicing for the state tournament, the Travelers finished their season by downing Avon 9-3.

Coach Mark Groth said the team's defense was one of the key factors that enabled the Travelers to dominate their league and qualify for state play.

"We feel we were the best defensive team in the league, and we will continue to concentrate on defense," Groth said.

Their solid defense was highlighted by Nick Kocinski, who defended the hot corner at third base.

"Nick Kocinski is probably one of the best third basemen in the league. Defensively, he's very solid."

Groth said. "The whole team chemistry—it's like a family. We have had unbelievable parent support this year."

A solid five-man pitching rotation was another asset the team proudly boasted. The rotation was staffed by Jason Schuler, Brad Groth, Mike Kral, Nathan Zeller and Brady Schultz.

At the plate, the Travelers posted a .350 team batting average, led by Schuler.

"He's clearly the standout hitter on the team," Groth said of Schuler.

Groth also believes parent support was another factor leading to the team's success.

"The whole team chemistry—it's like a family," Groth said.

"We have had unbelievable parent support this year."

Groth said he will be looking to the veteran leadership of Schuler, Kocinski, Groth, Kral and Zeller to lead the Travelers in Rockford.

The Travelers will enter into the seven-team, double elimination tournament as the only bronco team representing Lake County. Other members of the team include Tim Clutter, Chris Chapman, Jeff Norwick, Jerrad Ponce, Tim Good and Matt Petkus.

Groth was assisted by Len Kocinski, Bill Schuler and Ross Zeller.

Lake Villa squared off against the winner of the Rockford vs. Springfield game on Thursday.

"I heard through the grapevine they (Rockford) are the team to beat," Groth said.

Between solid defense, strong pitching, good hitting and fan support, it sounds like Lake Villa may be the team to beat. Stay tuned.—by KEVIN HANRAHAN

Lake Villa II: State bid depends on Lake Villa I

Gene Martin's Lake Villa Colts team needs a little help from Andy Davis' Lake Villa Colts team.

The top four teams in the Colt (Mike's Memorial) League earn the opportunity to compete in the state finals. Martin's Lake Villa I team is teetering between fourth and fifth place, depending upon how Lake Villa fares against the Round Lake Colts who are also sitting on the fence between fourth and fifth place.

If Lake Villa II defeats Round Lake, Lake Villa I advances to state competition.

Sound confusing? It's not really, just ask coach Martin.

"We can't determine it ourselves. It's up to the other Lake Villa team."

His team earned that right to be contenders by winning five games last week. First, Lake Villa II nipped Round Lake 6-5, then beat Carmel 6-1, then dominated Antioch 20-5, then crushed Waukegan 9-1 and defeated Carmel again 4-3.

One of the bigger matches came in a come-from-behind win over Round Lake. Trailing 4-1, Lake Villa battled back to snatch a 6-5 victory.

Following last week's five victories, Lake Villa finished with a 16-6 league record.

The team Martin hopes to see contend in the state tourney includes: Dave Martin, Mark Cobb, Josh Dunlavy, Brian Mikels, Mike Schultz, Joe Budill, Scott Lanners, Eric Dohrmann, Josh Zeller, David Paddock and Kevin Sparkman.

State playoffs will be held at Bowen Park in Waukegan and at Carmel High School.

It only seems fitting that one Lake Villa routs for the other Lake Villa team.

Cox was an infielder for the team which took third place in the St. Louis Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

The Lady Highlanders, coached by Sondi Creglow, finished with a 12-8 record in the league, 16-22 overall.

Ginger Skarvce batted 37-for-113, scored 23 runs and had 5 walks. She had 13 doubles, 5 stolen bases. The junior outfielder batted .327 in conference games.

Antioch, Lake Villa speedsters take checkered flag at Wilmot

MICHAEL H. BABICZ

Correspondent

Tommy Sexton of Antioch, Neal Ostergaard of Antioch, John Poehler of Libertyville and Kevin Penne of Lake Villa made it a sweep of feature events by Illinois competitors as part of the Friday Family Fun Night at Toft Auto Racing's Wilmot Speedway on July 15.

Jay Hess of Waukegan scored the win driving a 1980 Pontiac Grand Prix to win the 10-car "Beat Your Neighbor" field.

In a one-on-one "grudge match," Chris Kowalczyk of the "Racine Journal Times" made history by becoming the first woman ever to compete in a U.S. Lawnmower Assn. riding lawnmower sanctioned event.

Kowalczyk scored a popular win by less than half of the tractor over Chris Hull of the "Kenosha Bulletin."

Ostergaard, behind the wheel of a car originally built in 1976 by Don Lundgren, took over the lead in the Speed City/Antioch Veteran's Taxi/Ring's Radiator Camaro and was never threatened.

Ostergaard's third feature win of the season was in-record time as he took the 15 lap victory in 5:19.84.

"I have to thank Ray Toft for bringing back this division," said Ostergaard, who dedicated the win to a relative of one of his crew members who passed away. "This car was sitting in a field, and now I'm able to race it. We're up to third in the points now, and our goal is to win the championship."

Duck Wack jumped in front of the mini-modified feature on the first lap. Jim Morrison worked the high side in turn two and took top spot on the second circuit. Sexton, who started last in the field by accepting the Wizcom, Ltd. Challenge, worked into third on lap four.

With five laps to go, Sexton went to the outside of Morrison and the two battled side by side all of the way around the super-fast one-third mile oval.

Each took the lead briefly, but at the drop of the white flag it was dead even.

Coming for the checkered flag, Sexton inched forward and took the win in the Antioch Auto Center/Enemy Chassis/Sexton Automotive machine by less than two feet.

"That was the most fun I've ever had racing," said Sexton, who had Jim Morrison serve as his best man in his wedding last fall, and picked up the $30 Wizcom Bonus. "We're best friends and I knew it was close. It was great being able to run like that and especially since it was with Jim."

The main race went non-stop for the 20 laps with Ed Devall leading a pack of three cars which included Scott Kuxhouse and Rob Olson hounding Poehler throughout the last half.

Devall, Kuxhouse and Olson came charging out of turn four heading for the checkered. Kuxhouse and Devall came together with Kuxhouse spinning into the infield.

Poehler pulled away from the skirmish to record his first feature win since opening night.

"I don't know if people realize how much work it is for just Lorraine (Miles) and myself to field two cars which are both leading in the points in their divisions," said Poehler, who described his car as "ugly," but "winning ugly" on this night.

"I knew those guys were coming up behind me and I kept waiting for them to come along side. I'm glad I was able to wait all of the way to the checkered flag."

Heat winner Dave Brown led the first three laps of the riding lawnmower race, with Penne wheeling his Tierney Signs sponsored rider into top spot on lap four. Penne went on to score the feature win.

"My dad took me to my first lawnmower race at last year's nationals and I stood, leaning on the fence, watching and said, 'I can do that,'" said Penne, referring to the Sta-Bil Nationals which is a benefit for ALS "Lou Gehrig's disease."

"This time, I'm on the other side of the fence and it's great. I don't use this one to cut the grass at home, but I've got another one just like it which does," Penne said.

Antioch Waves put together winning streak

After capturing their first win of the season against Zion, the Antioch Waves Swim Team now have managed to string together three wins in a row.

The Waves brought their season record to 2-2 by outscoring Elgin YMCA 334-284.

In individual events, Matt Wilson (under 14 bracket) placed first in the 50-meter freestyle, 100-meter individual medley and 50-meter backstroke.

Also topping events was Ryan Rothermal (under 12 bracket), with firsts in the 50-meter freestyle and 50-meter breaststroke events.

The boys 8 and under relay team of Ross LeFave, Andrew Farrell, James Larson and Taylor Pechauer won points in the freestyle and medley events.

Also swimming well for Antioch were Mary Ipsen, Courtney Wilson, Brendan Saunders, David Roy and Kimberly Meyer.

At the Antioch Aqua Center July 14, the Waves topped McHenry II 438-165.

Five girls' relay teams placed first in both the medley relays and freestyle relays.

Teri Mozal (under 14 bracket) placed first in the girls 50-meter breaststroke and 100-meter individual medley.

James Larson (under 8 bracket) placed first in the boys 50-meter freestyle and 25-meter backstroke.

Catherine Eschbach led in the girls breaststroke. Jill Owens, Jenny Rosen and Kris Vanderkooy led in freestyle events.

The next two meets are at Algonquin and home.

Dempsey, Sapochak eras begin at Round Lake

While the head football and basketball jobs at Round Lake Senior High School are now filled for 1994-95, finding the right mix of assistants is the latest task for Athletic Director Jim Prorok.

Kevin Dempsey will take over as head football coach, conducting next week's football camp. Ron Sapochak got the nod for basketball.

"Football assistants is our biggest concern because a number of our staff are in administrative positions and you cannot be an administrator and coach," Prorok said.

Long-time assistants Pat Cron and Bruce Bartosz joined former head coach Mike Dunn in accepting administrative roles.

Prorok said he was pleased with the selection of Dempsey and Sapochak.

"Both have worked well with kids and are excellent teachers. They felt they were ready to take the next step and run their own programs," Prorok said.

"It is a dream come true,"

Dempsey, a 13-year assistant, said. "We have a great nucleus of kids, but Coach Dunn will be a hard act to follow," Dempsey said.

Dempsey plans to continue as head boys track coach.

Dempsey was a quarterback and defensive back for Lake Park High School.

"I would say I am more of a defensive oriented coach. Offense wins games, but defense wins championships," he said.

The sport of football has been almost inherited in the Dempsey clan. Kevin credits his father Fred with providing much of the inspiration. His Dad was an assistant coach at the College of DuPage and head coach at St. Patrick High in Chicago.

"Football is in our blood line," Dempsey said.

The Dempsey era will officially begin with the first day of practice Aug. 10.

Sapochak, of Grayslake, was an assistant to former head coach Bob Ward for nine years. Ward resigned to accept the head coaching position at Wheaton North.

"I like the kids I have been coaching, but would not describe it as a dream come true," Sapochak said.

Sapochak and Ward actually went back before Round Lake. Ward was Sapochak's junior varsity coach at Lake Zurich High.

"My style is similar to Bob's. I learned a lot about running a basketball program, not just coaching a team. Bob put a lot of time into working with the underclass levels and the youth camps," Sapochak said.

Sapochak played college hoops at St. Francis in Joliet.

"It was a difference of night and day. I went from being a walk-on, to the 15th man to playing every game my junior year," he said.

He did not play his senior year.

While a student teacher in Joliet, he was getting his start in coaching with a seventh grade team.

Aces Blue rally bid falls shy against Racine

A bad pitching start proved to be the difference between losing and winning for the Waukegan Aces Blue team.

Aces Blue fell to Racine 7-3 on an evening more suitable for football than baseball at Weiss Field.

"We gave them a 4-0 lead with four walks in the first inning. We played them even after that," Ron Zur, subbing for head coach Tom Jackson, said.

Erick Ponce of Grayslake pitched a good game for six innings, Zur said.

He was backed up by some solid defensive plays.

For example:

Shortstop Ray Quinones snared a line drive for a double play and dove to catch a liner with a runner on base.

"Ray gets an excellent jump on the ball, but needs to work on his consistency," Zur said.

Catcher Steve Waldo did his part by hustling back on a pop-up for an out and throwing a runner out trying to steal.

Aces Blue was not at full strength as four Missouri players who were key factors ended their Waukegan stays.

Kevin Bjedrzycki was just too tough for Aces Blue, as he fanned 7 batters and allowed just 4 hits.

J.J. Harang got the first, a triple and he later scored on a ground out for a 4-1 deficit.

The home team cut the lead to two in the second. Ponce singled, stole second and third and scored on an error.

Racine steadily pulled away, with single runs in the third, fourth and fifth innings.

The final Blue team run came in the fifth inning. Jason Smerlo singled, went to second on a wild pitch, to third on a single by Chris Quinn and scored on a sacrifice fly.

Bullets take championship trophy

The Lindenhurst Bullets girls softball team competed in the Rockford Lady Redwings Tournament and came home a big winner.

The Bullets, who are a 14 and under team, competed in this 16 and under tournament with a goal of gaining experience and having some fun in the process. What a surprise it was when the Bullets won the Consolation Bracket Championship.

The first four games of the tournament position the teams into two brackets according to win-loss records. Even though the Bullets played very competitively in these position round games, they finished with no victories and were placed in the consolation bracket.

This is when the excitement began.

The Bullets won the remainder of their games to be awarded the consolation championship and third place overall in the tournament.

This marks the first time a Lindenhurst girls traveling softball team has brought home a trophy, a tremendous feat considering this is also their first year in competition.

The initial round losses were to Rockford (11-3), Epperly (14-0), a scheduling mix-up forfeit and Kirkland (21-2).

The second round was different for the Bullets with playoff victories over Chicago Heights (7-6) and Deerfield (7-4).

Leading tournament hitters with batting averages over .300 were Jenny Piefer .462, Kelly Kotlarz .455, Sho Kent .429, Nicole Langley .400 and Terri Fasano .400.

The leading run scorer was Piefer with five, and heading the list with five RBIs was Megs Kotlarz. A lone triple was supplied by Amie Carlberg.

Outstanding defense was played by second baseman Katie Anderson and outfielders Erin Walsh and Angie Kendziora.

The tournament pitching statistics include Langley (13 innings, 10 runs, 10 walks, two strikeouts), K. Kotlarz (five innings, 11 runs, 10 walks, one strikeout), Piefer (three innings, 11 runs, nine walks, one strikeout), and Gina Seedoff (three innings, 20 runs, 11 walks, no strikeouts).

The championship game ball was awarded to Langley for her strong pitching performance and for her four RBIs.

The Bullets next play in the ASA Class A Fast Pitch Chicago Metro Qualifier in Blue Island.

'Cats beat Carmel in regional bid

Some say summer high school baseball is not as intense as the spring variety.

Players are striving for improvement and positions on the team, not post-season success.

But at Libertyville Tuesday, there was just enough intensity to keep loyal fans on hand through a 3-0 Libertyville win over Carmel and the rain. LHS advances to the final four at Stevenson. The Stevenson regional tourney final was played July 21, with the winner advancing to the state tourney in Naperville.

Offspeed pitcher James Kowitt scattered Carmel's safeties, struck-out two and escaped serious jams in the fifth and sixth innings.

"When the wind is blowing in, I look for a pop-up and let the fielders do the rest," Kowitt said. "I have two speeds on my curveball and throw a fastball."

Kowitt also showed he can execute a sacrifice. His perfect bunt scored the third LHS run, giving the team breathing room in the sixth inning.

"I missed two during the high school season, so I wanted to redeem myself," Kowitt said.

"It is so hard to tell in the summer because you don't see everyone's best players," Libertyville Coach Jim Panther said.

The Wildcats carry a 19-3 mark into the semifinal round while Carmel ended the summer with 12 wins.

Mike Scripture pitched a credible game for CHS and Andy Mikrut, the side-arm righty, came in and got two key ground ball outs.

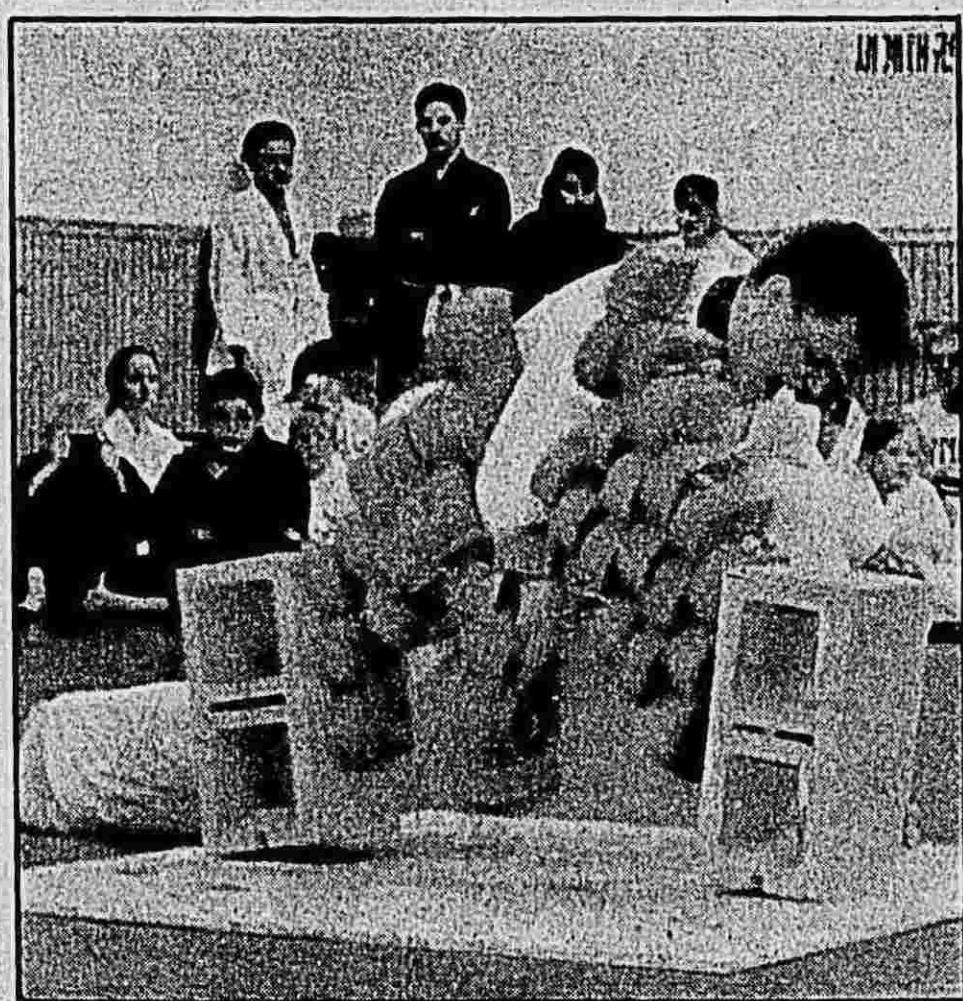

Libertyville scored first in the opening inning. Sean Mantucca doubled and scored on a single by Erick Figueroa.

Greg Kioehler singled to start the fourth for LHS and later scored on an error for a 2-0 lead.

Carmel received a walk and a single by Bob Farina to put runners at second and third with

Duck hunters: Register for blind drawings

Waterfowl hunting blinds at several public hunting areas will be allocated by random drawings this month.

"Duck and goose hunters must register in person for blind sites and must be present at the drawing held immediately after the registration period to claim their blind sites," explained Brent Manning of the Illinois Department of Conservation.

Registration for the Chain O' Lakes State Park, and the Redwing Slough/Deer Lake Natural Area will be offered July 30, at the Oak Point day use area, one-fifth mile east of the Fox River on the south side of Rte. 173. Hunters will be allowed to register for only one of the two sites. Mail-in registration is not acceptable.

Registration times are from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The Conservation Department said blind allocations are good for one, two or three years depending on the location.

To participate in the drawing, applicants must present a 1993 or 1994 hunting or combination sportsman's license and a 1993 or 1994 Illinois Migratory Waterfowl Hunting Stamp at the time they register, unless exempted by law. Applicants must be at least 16-years-old by the date of the drawing.

Board discusses opening new park

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

The village board discussed the still-gated Heron Harbor Park at its Monday meeting.

The park, located across the street from the Jewel/Osco on Route 173 has been closed since the beginning of the summer. And, actually it has never been officially opened. It does not yet even have a name.

"My assumption is that it is open," said Trustee Don Amundsen. "However, the gate has been closed and locked."

Tim Wells, village administrator, told the trustee that the gate had been closed because someone attempted to launch a boat from the area. At this time, the park board has not determined what the activity focus for the park will be.

Initially, the park was intended to be used as a soccer field, but it has something no other park in the Village of Antioch has — access to the channel. The park board is considering a pavilion, non-permanent restrooms, and maybe even fishing access.

The parking lot has been black-topped and striped. But, there are no restroom facilities and the planned pavilion has not been started.

"It is not finished yet," Mayor Marilyn Shineflug told Amundsen. "There are no facilities there yet."

Amundsen argued that the open fields could be used. "It is a lovely spot," said Amundsen. "It should be open."

Wells assured the board he would look into the situation. "The park should be open soon," he said.

Village approves buy down loans

At the last Antioch Village Board meeting, the trustees approved two buy down loans for Antioch merchants. This program offer merchants an opportunity to remodel buildings within the TIF district using low-interest loans.

Loans for Jack's Four Squires on Lake Street was one of the merchants receiving loan approval. The store, which sells fine clothing, is working to put a new facade on the storefront.

The buy-down loan for the proposed Williams Brothers Emporium was also approved. This project, located in the empty True Value hardware site, will include an antique mall on the first floor and apartments on the upper floor.

Preview voyage allows officials to ride into the future

The preview trip on the new commuter line was held up for over 30 minutes while it waited behind another freight train. Both trains were waiting for an oncoming freight train. The delay highlighted one of the problems facing the railroad in terms of scheduling as a result of single track. —Photo by Mary Foley

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Village officials, of areas along the new route of the Metra line proposed for the Wisconsin Central freight tracks, took a trip into the future in a preview voyage from Union Station to Antioch.

Along the way, Metra and Wisconsin Central Railroad officials answered questions about the new commuter rail service. The trip was also a dress rehearsal for railroad staff, as this was the first time the run was made with the actual staff.

The new line will run on the Wisconsin Central freight tracks, which have not seen passenger service since January of 1965, when the Soo Line's "Laker" made its last run. The tracks were originally laid in 1886.

According to Roberta Selzer Knirsch, in "The Town of Antioch Its First Hundred Years," as early as 1854, there had been interest in putting a railroad through Antioch. Initially, public hearings were held that year and stock certificates were issued for a Waukegan and Antioch Rail Road Company. After a year or so, that plan was given up.

Wisconsin Central then laid the tracks through the village in 1886. It has been reported that rail workers were putting in sixty feet at a time in only five minutes.

The old line ran passenger trains from Chicago to Antioch. In 1894 five trains departed from Chicago, and five from Antioch.

The new commuter line will have seven trips each way from Antioch and Chicago initially. These will include three peak-period/peak-direction trains, one reverse peak train, and three additional off-peak trains in each direction. In plain English, this means three early morning trains from Antioch to Chicago, three evening trains from Chicago to Antioch, one Chicago to Antioch train in the a.m. rush hour, one Antioch to Chicago in the evening rush hour, and three scattered See METRA page B2

No-wake on Chain to be addressed at hearing

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Residents along the Chain O'Lakes will have the opportunity to voice their opinions on whether or not the 150-foot no-wake zone should be reinstated.

The hearing will be held on July 21, at Grant High School in Fox Lake. The meeting is slated to begin at 7:30 p.m.

The "no-wake" issue was brought up again at last month's Waterway Agency meeting by director and Republican County Board candidate, Judy Martini after the board listened to residents concerns regarding the dissolution of the "no-mooring" area along Pistakee Bay.

"When the public sector starts infringing on the rights of the private sector to use these waterways, something needs to be done," said Martini. "It takes a public hearing to make a no-mooring area. I would like to think that out of common courtesy for our constituents we would grant them a public hearing before we take this away from them."

Martini's motion failed for lack of a second. However, after the no-wake issue resurfaced towards the end of the meeting, Chairman William Dam, of the agency, allowed an emergency 100-foot no-mooring area, and put the no-wake/no-mooring issue on the agenda.

"We promised the boaters that we would have a public hearing on this issue, and now that our referendum is over, we must start addressing some of the real problems on our waterways," Martini said.

In response to the final draft of the Army Corps Environmental Impact Study (EIS) Martini feels the no-wake zone is a good beginning. "I have always felt the 150-foot no-wake area was a good place to start implementing some of the findings of the EIS and I would hate to see another worthless study," she said.

The goal of the EIS was to minimize the environmental impacts, maximize safety, and improve the many uses and benefits of the Chain. Martini feels that the waterway agency should be the sponsor of the implementation of the alternatives offered by the corps.

"I feel this no-wake/no-mooring hearing will be the first step in the process by allowing public involvement in the future planning of a full comprehensive plan to address water quality and water safety issues," explained Martini. "In my opinion this no wake area will provide an area for swimming and fishing, protect our homeowner's shorelines from accelerated erosion and prevent accidents by power boats who operate in shallow waters. I encourage all to attend Thursday's hearing so I can hear your opinions on this issue."

Bonner's Lake County Fair ties decades in the making

STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Dave Bonner, like many youngsters, had an early start when it came to attending the Lake County Fair.

"My family was showing 19 head of cattle. We also had crops and chickens," Bonner said.

Some 40 years later, Bonner continues his trek to the Fair every final week of July. He is serving his second year as president of the Lake County Fair Board. The fair begins July 27.

"We have many things people enjoy seeing," Bonner said.

The fair in the last couple of years has re-emphasized its agricultural roots.

"Many people don't know what a cow looks like. Two years ago, Lee Builders built us a small building for agriculture. We want to teach and inform," Bonner said.

Bonner said getting people into the fair has gone well since the construction of the new main entrance. "In 1992, everything was going well the first day, but 25,000 people wanted to come to the fair at the same time, right before motocross. Friday and Saturday we had 50,000," Bonner said.

He said Thursday and Friday crowds are in a bigger hurry trying to get into and out of the fair. Weekend crowds are generally more relaxed.

The fair has not lost its rural charm - at least not yet, according to Bonner.

"The amount of dairy cattle is less, but we have been turning people away for antiques and ceramics," Bonner said.

The Lake County Fair Board includes Gene Kulin of Grayslake as vice president; Burnell Russell of Volo as secretary and Mary Hook of Grayslake as treasurer.

The Lake County Fairgrounds is not just for the annual fair fun. "It is rented out all but three weekends of the year," Bonner said.

The Lake County Fair runs from July 27-31 at the fairground located at the corner of Rtes. 120 and 45.

Former police officer Jensen starts serving sentence

SPENCER SCHEIN
Staff Reporter

Former Island Lake Police Officer Rena Jensen is awaiting transfer to the correctional center in Dwight, Ill., to serve her sentence for obstructing justice in the shooting of Jim Johnson, a former Wauconda fire fighter.

Jensen, 31, appeared in court July 18 and was remanded to Lake County Jail to begin serving her 18-month term. Jensen will also serve nine-months for reckless conduct in the shooting of Johnson, 31, her former boyfriend, the night of July 13, 1993.

A jury found her guilty of the lesser charge after prosecutors had gone after a charge of attempted murder. She was given a credit of one month for the time she spent incarcerated after being arrested in February, and conceivably could spend less than nine-months at Dwight, depending on the amount of time she receives off for good behavior.

A Lake County Jail spokeswoman said Jensen would probably be transferred to Dwight within the next two weeks.

Johnson had been shot in the head following an argument in the trailer they had shared for one week near Wauconda. Jensen had become jealous after learning he had an affair with another woman more than one year before they met.

CLEAR against landfill expansion

Lake County's established environmental activists are joining forces to make county residents aware of the potential health, safety and environmental risks associated with the proposed expansion of the Countryside Landfill near Grayslake.

The coalition, to date is comprised of Illinois Citizen Action (ICA) and Citizens of Lake County for environmental Action Reform (CLEAR). Witnesses and expert testimony will be presented alleging unsafe and potentially hazardous conditions at the landfill to the Lake County Pollution Control Board, according to Earl Johnson, executive director of ICA. The coalition will also notify its members and area residents of concerns regarding USA Waste Services, Inc., the landfill's owner and operator.

Hearings began July 8 in the county building on USA Waste's application to double the land area and height of the former ARF Landfill.

The board is expected to recommend whether to approve or deny the application to the full county board later this month. USA Waste must also seek approval from the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) before it can proceed.

"Uniting the resources of the two groups will provide more credible and compelling opposition to the expansion plan, because combined, our coalition represent approximately 1,200 Lake County residents," Johnson said. Although Grayslake and Libertyville have signed or are considering lucrative agreements from USA Waste in return for their support, Johnson said there are a significant number of residents who do not want the landfill to remain open for another 20 years.

"We have our own experts reviewing the application and IEPA documents to identify areas in which the existing landfill and the expansion provide reasonable and legitimate health risks to the citizens of Lake County," Johnson said. "We are prepared to present this information at the hearing and before the county board."

CLEAR, formed in 1987 to oppose the first landfill expansion attempt, has taken a less active role than in 1987-88, particularly because of USA Waste's strategy of approaching county board members prior to commencement of the siting hearing.

In addition to this, the signing of host-community agreements between USA Waste and Grayslake, Prairie Crossing and SWALCO have given the perception that the application process is the "mother of all done deals," said Christine Geiselhart, chairperson of the 800 member organization.

"We see growing opposition to the landfill and realize that with the fight being waged by Round Lake Park, we may have an opportunity to stop the expansion from happening," Geiselhart said. "Our priority work with ICA and other environmental groups on common issues will help us plan and execute a well-organized grass-roots campaign. We welcome and encourage the involvement of any and all concerned residents."

Neighborhood spokespeople and CLEAR members met with representatives of USA Waste last February to discuss a so-called "host-community agreement" regarding the landfill. A letter, dated Feb. 25, outlined examples of community compensation USA Waste may consider providing if CLEAR publicly endorsed the expansion. Such compensation included some or all of the substantial cost to build parks, playgrounds, swimming pools, libraries, traffic lights, water and sewer lines and solid-waste disposal services.

Geiselhart notified USA Waste in a letter dated March 5 that the CLEAR Board and neighborhood representatives unanimously agreed that it would be inappropriate...to publicly support the landfill expansion plan as it is currently proposed.

CLEAR remains concerned about noxious odors that emit from the site, the potential loss of neighboring property values, the effect of hazardous materials on the leachate and its interaction with the ground water, the acceptability of the site for continued use as a landfill and the involvement of ARF Landfill owner, Robert F. Smith, in the operations of USA Midwest region.

Johnson expects to call his witnesses sometime next week.

Metra

From B1 trips each way during the day.

The maiden voyage is expected in April of 1996. The trip will initially include stops at Antioch, Lake Villa, Round Lake Beach, Libertyville, Mundelein, Vernon Hills, Prairie View, Buffalo Grove, Wheeling, Prospect Heights, Deval, O'Hare, River Grove, and Chicago's Union Station. Future stops may include Grayslake, Rosemont, Franklin Park, and Schiller Park.

The overall trip is expected to take 90 minutes. From Libertyville, 70 minutes. The Wisconsin Central segment is approximately 41 miles in length from the Antioch coach yard site on the Wisconsin border to the junction where the trains will switch from the Wisconsin Central line to the Metra Milwaukee District West tracks. The total length of the run will be 53 miles. At River Grove commuters will be able to transfer to other Metra lines.

One of the problems the railroads are working on is that the Wisconsin Central line is a single track line, that has been used solely for freight for many years. Railroad experts have purchased a simulator to work on the scheduling problem. With only a single track line, trains must pull off onto sidings when they come upon trains running in different directions or faster moving trains.

Without split-second scheduling, huge delays can be expected. This occurred on the train preview when public officials had an unexpected 45 minute stop while a southbound train came by. Rail officials, however, reassured the group that by April of 1996, these problems will be taken care of.

In addition to commuters on their way to and from work, the line is also expected to be a big help to those traveling to O'Hare Airport. Chicago residents as well as those living along the line will have a non-car alternative to the airport. The O'Hare Station will become an important intermodal station that will allow transfers between Metra service and the Airport Transit System, commonly called the people mover. Rail officials are currently working with Amtrak and the City of Chicago to develop the O'Hare Station to connect with a proposed extension of the people mover. However, initially, it is likely that a shuttle-bus will take travelers from the train to the people mover.

A rail yard is to be built in Antioch along the Illinois and Wisconsin border. At a cost of roughly $8 million, the yard will initially hold 45 cars using four tracks. A locker room will be built for rail employees. Rail officials assured the group that the yard will "go around any wetlands," so that the natural environment will not be disturbed.

It is unknown what the ticket prices will be for the new route. However, it is expected that the five-mile formula, used on other lines, will apply.

After many years of planning, Lake County residents will actually see the physical work on the line begin in the fall. The platforms for Antioch, Lake Villa, Vernon Hills, Buffalo Grove will be constructed this fall. Trackwork has already begun, and residents can see the railroad ties that have been placed along the tracks. Over 47,000 wood ties will be installed.

Construction on the yard will also begin in September. The sale of the property to Metra is almost finalized. Fresh rock beds for the tracks will be put into place and work will begin on the grade crossings, which include signal-replacement and possibly some crossing arms will be added.

In 1995, the remaining platforms will be completed along with the stations and parking lots.

The track and signal work will continue and the actual train coaches will be refurbished and upgraded.

The count-down has begun.

AT A GLANCE

Victory poised to expand

LINDENHURST—Victory Medical Services is seeking to create a healthcare campus on land it owns off Rte 83 near the Lake Villa District Library. They also want to annex an 8-acre parcel into the village and use it as part of the campus. The company is running market surveys and is waiting for state approval before deciding what type of services will be provided at the site.

Bar still appealing

ROUND LAKE BEACH—The owner of the former Streamer's Sports Bar and Grill, Gus Koumas, is likely to petition for a rehearing of the Round Lake Beach liquor hearing by the Illinois Liquor Commission after the state upheld the Round Lake Beach's decision to revoke the liquor license. The local ruling was based on several charges including, serving to a minor, serving after hours and the manager and owner not living in the village. Koumas' attorney, Terry Slaw, said he believes the ruling is too harsh and is confident his client will get the decision overturned if there is another hearing.

Agency gets 10-year permit

CHAIN O' LAKES—The Fox Waterway Agency has accomplished a feat that may go down in history. Last week, two permits were received from the U.S. Army Corps which are good until the year 2004. Agency directors explain they have been working with the Corps for a long time on something like this, and they are delighted it finally happened. "I think it shows the Corps confidence in the agency," said executive director Karen Kabbes. The two permits, one for raking and the other for dredging the waterways, will "definitely" save money for the agency, and time for both the agency and the Corps. For several years the agency has been dredging and raking different areas of the Chain and the Fox River, and each time, obtaining a permit was an easy task. A "considerable lag time" was what the Agency had to deal with. Although a fair amount of paperwork still has to be done each year, and reports have to be given to the Corps before and after any dredging, the Agency says it's well worth it.

Two die in morning crash

ANTIOCH—Two men died early Saturday morning in a fatal crash on Route 173 in Antioch. The cause of the accident is not known. The driver, Gordon Ellul, 30, of Frankfort, Illinois and Timothy Snyder, age 31, of Lake Villa both passed away Sunday in a Milwaukee hospital as a result of their injuries. "The injuries were substantial," said Lieutenant Charles Watkins of the Antioch Police Department. Police are still investigating the cause of the accident.

Camp could be new school

LINCOLNSHIRE—Lincolnshire-Prairie View District 103 has identified a 12-acre site to build a new third- through fifth-grade school. The 12-acre parcel is part of Kelly's Day Camp in Vernon Hills. School officials said students will have access to the camp's tennis courts, swimming pools and nature trails during the camp's off season. Cost of the site is expected to be approximately $1.1 million. Actual purchase of the site depends on voter approval during a November referendum. The $11.4 million referendum package also calls for the addition of 10 new classrooms and a new gym to the Daniel Wright Junior High School.

Man accused of exposing self

LAKE ZURICH—A man who admitted to exposing himself in a number of communities in Lake and McHenry County was arrested in Lake Zurich for exposing himself to a 16-year-old girl the afternoon of July 12. Mark Gerard Trudgen, 34, of Greenfield, Wis., was apprehended by Crystal Lake Police after they received a similar report from Cary authorities. Trudgen admitted to the crimes under questioning, and was charged by both Cary and Lake Zurich.

Metra ridership continues climb

Ridership on Metra commuter rail continues to exceed last year's levels, according to numbers released at the Metra Board of Directors meeting. May 1994 ridership was 5.7 percent higher than May of 1993, with an actual increase of almost 340,000 passenger trips. It marked the fifth consecutive month of 1994 in which ridership topped comparable months of 1993.

"The reliability and convenience of our trains, compared to highway travel, is the primary reason why our ridership continues to increase," said Metra Chairman Jeff Ladd.

Ten of 11 Metra routes reported a gain in ridership. Metra/Burlington Northern reported the largest numerical gain in passenger trips at 103,036, with Metra/Chicago & Northwestern North Line second at 52,147. Metra/Milwaukee District West Line reported a gain in passenger trips of 43,358, a 9.8 percent increase from May of 1993—second only to Metra/Burlington Northern at 10.1 percent.

Factors believed to have contributed to the large gains include increasingly congested highway conditions on the Eisenhower Expressway, as well as reconstruction on the Kennedy Expressway. "The traveling public is also becoming increasingly more aware that the price of a Metra ticket is a bargain when compared to the cost of commuting by car," Ladd added.

Yard sale to benefit Carnegie

On Saturday, July 23 Carnegie Preservation Project volunteers will hold a Yard Sale at the landmark 1903 Carnegie building in Waukegan. The sale begins at 8 a.m. and runs until 3 p.m. Rain or shine, the event will be at the Carnegie building on the northeast corner of Washington Street and Sheridan Road in downtown Waukegan.

Along with the public, a number of Waukegan merchants have donated items to be offered for sale. The group is still accepting tax-deductible donations for the event from both the public and merchants. Items already available include household goods, furniture, clothing, books, sporting goods, toys, computer hardware and software, electronic equipment, games and lots of other items. Proceeds from the event will benefit the restoration of the landmark 1903 Carnegie building in Waukegan.

Anyone wishing to donate items is requested to call the Carnegie Preservation Project Hotline at 336-6703. Their mailing address is P.O. Box 8685, Waukegan, IL 60079-8685.

She built her own success story with help from CLC

While training for a career in civil engineering, Vicki Casino was often the only woman in some of her classes, but that didn't stop her from eventually becoming president of Industrial Construction Experts (ICE), a Vernon Hills company that specializes in building cold-storage facilities.

In preparing for her career, Vicki attended the College of Lake County to get a firm foundation in engineering before going on to a bachelor's degree in civil engineering from the University of Illinois at Champaign.

"I'm definitely glad I went to CLC instead of going directly to the U of I as a freshman because it was cost effective and gave me a chance to decide what I really wanted to do," said Vicki. "I think I learned a lot more at CLC because students get more individual attention from the instructors," she added.

Celebrating its 25th anniversary, the College of Lake County has helped more than 300,000 people like Vicki write their personal success stories. Let us help you write yours!

Vicki first began her engineering career with Waste Management, Inc. in the environmental field. Now, she puts her talents to work as a civil engineer at ICE, performing hands-on tasks in addition to her administrative duties.

Like many students who have transferred to four-year institutions from CLC, Vicki took advantage of the reasonable tuition costs, the high quality of instruction and the smaller, more intimate class sizes at CLC to familiarize herself with her chosen field and build a solid base for a successful career.

Big vote history; bigger vote in '96

Voters aren't stupid.

That's why they're not likely to forget the 18 Lake County Board members who voted in favor of the controversial W.W. Grainger rezoning for an office park in a residential enclave, effectively gutting county zoning standards and opening up a Pandora's Box of prospective litigation plus future assaults on existing zoning and land planning.

The 18 representatives required for the super-majority still haven't connected with the idea that more and more voters are sick and tired of unbridled growth, zoning manipulations and machinations of developers that accompany the knee-jerk jobs at any cost, no-holds barred development mentality that has engulfed county political leadership.

Two of the yes votes were cast by lame duck members Colin McRae (Mundelein) and Jim Fields (Antioch) who were dispatched to retirement in the spring primaries by an electorate fed up with go-go growth politics. Their prospective successors both indicated they would have voted against Grainger.

Other yes voters were Bob Neal, James LaBelle, Ed Fojtik, Larry Leafblad, Bob Depke, Debra Halas, Dick Raftis, Angelo Kyle, Dr. John Schullen, Audrey Nixon, Mark Beaubien, Pam Newton, Bob Grever, David Stolman, Carol Spielman and Bob Buhai. Most of them will be up for reelection in 1996.

A number of the yes voters exhibited a callous disregard for zoning in unincorporated areas, opening wonderment to whether county zoning is worth a plugged nickel. Other yes voters appeared to be bowled over by Grainger's land gift, basically unbuildable ground. There was some child-like acceptance of Grainger assurances to provide appropriate minority hiring at its new corporate center in Mettawa. A few board members chose to hide behind early-on commitments they said were made to Grainger by Chairman Depke, indicating that their hands were tied.

Perhaps the most significant vote was cast by Waukegan Rep. Bertha Ogrin, not noted to be a doctrinaire, open spacer or opponent of commercial growth. Ogrin voted no, expressing dismay over the prospect of a powerful corporation imposing its will on an established community, disgust that the county would undercut a previously supported inter-governmental land planning agreement. Grainger runs counter to lake-front development, Ogrin reasoned.

As one Chicago daily smugly put its editorial support for the Grainger office complex, the project will be "good" for Lake County. Yes, if your idea of good is higher taxes, over-crowded schools and clogged highways.

Will one more office park in booming Lake County shake public confidence in the integrity and reliability of government? Probably not, but the methods used to gain Grainger acceptance and the people who used them might. The County Board primary campaign is less than 24 months away. It will be interesting to see what changes in the thinking about growth and development take place by then.

Time to research library rhubarb

Where to locate the community library doesn't seem like a topic to stir the public juices, but the question has divided Grayslake into two warring camps.

No doubt Libertyville residents would view library location with amusement because the historic Cook Memorial Library has been in the center of town "forever." When communities began expanding "on the edges," folks in Antioch, Lake Zurich, Wauconda, Lake Villa and Gurnee took it for granted that their new library would be relocated to a neighborhood environment with plenty of parking. As, indeed, the library relocations in these communities in recent years were made.

Invoking a sort of Carnegie grant theory where the city library has to be in the center of commerce, Grayslake library officials opted more than 20 years ago for a main street location, arguing that a storefront location is the place to be, quite oblivious to the new library trend toward sites for openness and future expansion going on in neighboring communities. —LETTER TO THE EDITOR—

Board ignores public

Editor:

The Grayslake Library Board of Trustees has forgotten who they are supposed to be serving, the tax-paying public.

Before the referendum last November, they displayed a model of the new library, distributed literature stating the facility would be in Central Park and provided the estimated tax increase per household. After the vote passed by a 60/40 margin, the Library Board has chosen to ignore their constituents by changing locations and building designs. In addition my library tax assessment is double what the board said it would be.

When elected officials fail to carry out their fiduciary duties for the people who put them in office, those officials should be removed from office. The Library Board has crossed this threshold; they all should resign or be removed and replaced with responsible officials who can restore integrity, dignity and accountability to this agency.

By the way, put the library back in Central Park where the voters said they wanted it.

Domestic Violence

Editor:

The tragic killings of Nicole Brown Simpson and Ronald Lyle Goldman have focused the nation's attention on domestic violence, police indifference to it, judicial system negligence and the immunity of celebrity status.

"Domestic violence couldn't happen in Brentwood," some thought. But Nicole Simpson was stalked and repeatedly abused there by someone she once loved. A celebrity. A charmer. And, because domestic violence is a crime, a criminal.

Domestic violence happens throughout Lake County, too. Last year, A Safe Place, the shelter for victims of domestic violence, helped 1,079 women whose lives were threatened by someone they loved. They'd been hit, kicked, choked, beaten unconscious, and threatened with, or injured by, a knife or gun. They'd also been verbally, emotionally and sexually abused.

Land sale illegal

Editor:

Your editorial tells that the Grayslake School Board voted to fund a major high school addition without public input. On the front page of the Fox Lake Press it was related that Grant Township trustees voted unanimously in a biweekly meeting to sell two acres of Township land adjoining the South Grant Fire Station to the Fire Department.

The land is not in use. Perhaps it is best to give it to the Fire Department.

The issue and the problem is the method of the turn-over. Apparently the Grayslake sale of tax-free high interest Certificates of Participation without referendum is legal. But the Grant Township vote was clearly flying without wings. The Illinois Code limits sale of township real estate until after a written certified appraisal, for no less than 30 percent of its value, at an annual meeting or a special meeting, See LETTERS page B5

Scourge of gardeners—the noxious thistle

BILL SCHROEDER

Publisher

Where is the township thistle commissioner when we need him?

This is the time of year the prickly weeds ripen, spewing seeds in all directions. Don't be mistaken that the native thistle's spiny Canadian cousin with the large purple seed and vessel is something special. It's still a weed and an object of horticultural scorn.

There was a time when local government acted to curb the spread of one of the nastiest weeds imaginable. Townships empowered the commissioner (usually a he) to go on the warpath every July to battle the enemy of both crops and mankind.

An aide in Supervisor Joe Tekampe's office in Fremont Township, Lake County's most rural area, thought this reporter was joking upon fielding an inquiry about the thistle commissioner. No joke. The office (at least at one time) was for real.

Avon Township Supervisor Russ Christian went scurrying to the archives after we called. Christian produced documentation that, indeed, the thistle commissioner was a constituted township office long ago.

One A.W. Harvey was paid $52 in 1910 for services as thistle commissioner, Christian discovered. As recently as 1946, Avon Township paid $150 to an unnamed weed commissioner.

Lining the roadside, clumped in fields or lurking in private gardens, the thistle is noxious and obnoxious at the same time. Be gone, oh blighted one!

Wiech, proprietor of Wiech's Inn, a popular refreshment outpost in Ivanhoe, figured he had achieved matchless contemporary humor when he proclaimed on his announcement sign: "Polish Happy Hour, Buy 1, Pay for 2."

As Art related, first a woman scolded him for tasteless ethnic humor that was degrading her heritage. Then someone heaved a rock through the sign.

"Heck, I'm Polish myself. I thought the sign was funny," commented Wiech. Replacing expensive neon was no joke, though, so Art changed the sign after only a week. About the critic: Art challenged her authenticity. "I started talking Polish and she couldn't understand me. She wasn't for real."

CONFIDENCE—There's a great deal of confidence and faith being exhibited by both sides in effective operation of the model landfill on Rte. 83 designed to serve the county's solid waste disposal needs for the next 20 years ago.

Tim Close, manager of Countryside Landfill, said USA Waste Inc. has entered into a 10-year home guarantee purchase plan with future homeowners in Prairie Crossing, the model environmental community being developed across Rte. 21 from the landfill.

In a few years, maturing shade trees and berms will all but hide the landfill from passersby. Some parts of the facility will be available for public use in about seven to 10 years, according to Close.

PARTY LINES

'War Zone' shifting to Good Shepherd

Party Lines, the Lakeland Newspapers column of political commentary, is prepared from staff reports.

Next stop on the Lake County Board excursion into rewriting zoning laws likely will be Good Shepherd Hospital's attempt to reclassify a substantial part of the Barrington landscape surrounding the hospital.

Hospital officials have coupled rezoning with expansion plans.

Neighbors approve of hospital expansion, but not rezoning. They say Good Shepherd has no business in the land speculation business.

One of the leading rezoning critics is Village President Walter Clark of North Barrington, who also is the current president of the Lake County Municipal League.

Caught in the middle is County Board Rep. Mark Beaubien, who also is Cuba Township supervisor. Beaubien, who voted for the controversial W.W. Grainger rezoning in Mettawa, also favors opening up the Good Shepherd territory for more building, Party Lines learned.

One County Board member told Party Lines: "Watch the Good Shepherd deal. It's going to be a lulu."

Tax cap meaningless

Editor:

Seniors in Illinois are being forgotten, ignored and burdened with skyrocketing property taxes. Each increase in taxes results in the elimination of some other necessity or pleasurable spending (a ride in the country, lunch at McDonald's, a toy for a loving grandchild, cutting our own food budget).

Being reassessed every year, increasing values and taxes has made the five percent tax cap all but meaningless. We have long questioned why the homestead and senior exemptions remain dormant with no regard for the artificial increased property values.

As we must give up our homes or possibly lose our homes that we have paid for, paid taxes on, the present administration is spending billions to make home ownership available to the homeless, to welfare recipients, etc. (including non-citizens). How will they pay property taxes? Will we be taxed more to pay property taxes for others, the same property taxes we cannot afford to pay?

Rightists lack proof

Editor:

This year I am going to attend the Wauconda Rodeo. I have never been to a rodeo before, and I really don't know exactly what to expect. I have never given it much thought.

My interest has been peaked by all the arguments both for and against this event. When I first started to hear the negative comments about the rodeo, I too questioned whether or not this was something that should be promoted by the Wauconda Chamber of Commerce.

The more that was written to local papers, the more I realized that the rodeo supporter's letters were level-headed and backed up with facts and statistics while those concerned with animal rights issues only ranted and raved about abuses and never supported any of their allegations with proof.

I am planning to have a nice time, and doubt that I will see any animal abuse based on what I have read.

COMMENTARY

Chicago pols pushing expensive little toy

TIM TOBIN

If Chicago politicians and some Chicago area special interests get their way because Gov. Jim Edgar does not intercede, taxpayers in every county of the state will be forced to foot the bill for a silly, expensive, money-losing trolley car project that will run a deficit of millions of dollars each year.

Federal and state tax dollars would each fund one-third of the so-called Chicago "Central Area Circulator," a money loser the private sector would not consider touching; it would be financed largely by those who do not live in Chicago and would never use this expensive little toy their entire lives. The remaining third would be absorbed by property owners unlucky enough to have their property in a special downtown taxing district, paying a special property tax of 12 cents per square foot.

On Nov. 9, 1947, news writer Clayton Kirkpatrick wrote an editorial opinion ("Buses Superior to Street Cars; This Tells Why") explaining why the Chicago Transit Authority was spending $150 billion to substitute buses for 3,000 street cars and abandon 700 miles of track by 1957.

Kirkpatrick stated that three of the city's top authorities on traffic movements considered street cars "...a dangerous impediment to traffic—an impediment that may be eliminated by substitution of motor or trolley buses."

One of the three experts, George W. Barton, was quoted as saying, "The principal objection to the street car is that it is an obstacle in the middle of the street where it is desirable to have traffic move and move rapidly. The bus, on the other hand, operates next to the curb and leaves outer traffic lanes open for uninterrupted traffic flow."

Now, almost 50 years later, politicians and special interest groups are falling over themselves to saddle downstate and suburban taxpayers with of all things, a street car project—a billion dollar boondoggle featuring nineteenth-century technology—and the firm George Barton co-founded, Barton-Aschmann Associates, is recommending this trolley project as the "preferred alternative."

This is not a viable project, which is why no private firm would sink its own capital into this project. Once the billion dollars (including bond interest) is poured into the project, that money is gone forever. It will not be recouped. If private funds were used to finance this useless project, I would have no objection, but, as usual, it is taxpayers who would be stuck with the bill for a project unacceptable to the private sector.

Annual operating and maintenance costs are estimated to be $8.5 million (compared with $4.4 million that new buses would require). The added annual operating deficit would start at $1.6 million and would also be subsidized by taxpayers.

The Chicago trolley would take taxpayers for a very expensive ride, and the land speculators, financial institutions and politically connected contractors reaping windfall profits would be collecting the fares.

Governor Edgar should publicly oppose this shameful assault on taxpayer's pocketbooks and work to defeat the state portion of the funding intended for construction. If the governor will oppose state funding, this trolley project will be transported into the oblivion it so richly deserved.

Editor's note: Jim Tobin is president of National Taxpayers United of Illinois, Illinois' largest taxpayer organization with over 10,000 members and affiliation with more than 300 local taxpayer groups and homeowner associations.

Library

time, some merchants argued that a downtown library would be the ruination of the business district. Library officials argued just as vociferously that it made sense that when someone picked up a book they also stopped by for a tube of toothpaste, a gallon of paint or a loaf of bread.

The location rhubarb disturbingly has degenerated into a conflict between oldtimers fighting for a downtown location and newcomers preferring a park-like setting which was offered in a referendum last November in a cooperative effort with the park district. The debate is being played out amid an ongoing feud between the two taxing bodies that is confusing and wasteful.

Library officials acted in haste when they earmarked a downtown location next to railroad tracks for the new library without proper public input. A truce is in order before Grayslake's Center St. is turned into a sort of Gaza Strip.

While cooler heads sort out things, it might prove beneficial if residents of the above mentioned communities were consulted on what they like and don't like about the library location in their community. We're in the era of opinion polling and market research. Time ought to be taken for generous amounts of both.

Baxter signs agreement for cost reduction

Baxter Healthcare Corporation announced that it has signed a five-year agreement with Allegheny Health Education and Research Foundation (AHERF) designed to achieve substantial logistics and product savings and improve efficiency at AHERF facilities. AHERF is an integrated academic health-care system that operates in the Pittsburgh and Philadelphia regions.

This relationship, which is the first "shared-savings" agreement for Baxter, initially will focus on implementing Baxter's ValueLink® delivery service at AHERF-owned hospitals. Additionally, the partners will reduce product and supply expenses by:

- expanding product standardization programs within each AHERF hospital and across the AHERF system.

- streamlining product procurement, supply distribution and billing and payment processes.

- reducing the total number of supplies used by implementing new processes and technologies, including Baxter's Procedure-Based Delivery System (PBDS).

- jointly identifying opportunities to use products that cost less.

Under the terms of the agreement, Baxter will share savings when AHERF's total supply costs are reduced; when savings are realized, they will be shared equally be Baxter and AHERF. The agreement is expected to generate up to $300 million in product purchases for Baxter over the course of the agreement.

"This strategic arrangement is built on the premise that Baxter and our customers prosper best when we work together," said Joe Potenza, Baxter region president. "Through our inter-organizational teamwork we already have developed a level of trust and commitment well beyond transaction-oriented supply arrangements. We're a partner in AHERF's future and they're a partner in our future."

"We're confident that this cooperative approach to reducing materials and logistics costs will enable AHERF to more effectively address the challenges of healthcare's new economics," said Steve Spargo, senior vice president, support services at AHERF. "We're impressed with how Baxter is approaching its business. As partners, we will yield results far greater than those which could be achieved by acting independently," Spargo emphasized.

Baxter's ValueLink program, a key component of the agreement, is a customized, "stockless" inventory-management service that allows hospitals to eliminate See BAXTER page B7

Plastic surgeon performs humanitarian surgery

Rudolph F. Dolezal, M.D., a plastic and reconstructive surgeon on EHS Good Shepherd Hospital's medical staff, participated in a humanitarian mission for children in Guatemala.

Dr. Dolezal and several other surgeons from the Craniofacial Center at the University of Illinois, traveled to Guatemala City and operated on children with congenital deformities such as cleft lips and palates. EMS seminar set Saint Therese Medical Center, and three other hospitals in the South Lake County Emergency Medical Service System (EMSS), hosted the annual spring seminar for approximately 150 paramedics and EMT-As who are members of the 23 fire departments in the South Lake county (SLC) System.

Ethel Cox, RN, BA, Saint Therese Medical Center's EMS coordinator, said, "The SLC EMS System is dedicated to providing continuing education to its members." It accomplishes this goal by providing throughout the year these seminars along with a traditional lecture-testing format and each coordinator accompanies the ambulance crew to evaluate their skills on a first hand basis.

The topics covered at the spring seminar included attitude and behavior adjustment, street drugs, domestic violence and traumatic amputation-accident through rehabilitation.

Pre-hospital care providers must be relicensed every four years and the CEUs they receive from these events are applied toward this relicensure.

For more information on this educational process, contact Ethel Cox, 360-2038.

the cost of storing and maintaining supplies. Baxter provides the timely supply of needed products through frequent low-unit-of-measure deliveries to specific departments within the hospital.

Through the PBDS service, Baxter will assemble both sterile and non-sterile supplies into individual modules designed for surgical and obstetrical procedures. This reduces both inventory and labor costs associated with pulling together individual products each time a procedure is performed.

"This relationship with Baxter not only reduces costs, but also allows our nurses and other health-care providers to focus on what we do best—providing quality patient care," Spargo added.

This agreement demonstrates Baxter's commitment to address customer needs in a managed-care environment. Baxter anticipates introducing several managed-care initiatives this year that focus on cost reduction and quality service.

Therapist makes national presentation

Diane S. Enz M.Ed. OTR/L an occupational therapist at Waukegan School District No. 60 presented a paper on Macintosh Technology used with special needs students. This paper was presented at the first ever joint annual conference and exposition of the Canadian Association of Occupational Therapists (CAOT) and the American Occupational Therapy Association, Inc. (AOTA), held July 9 in Boston, Mass. Enz was one of approximately 480 speakers chosen to make a presentation at this year's conference, attended by over 6,000 therapists, certified assistants and other health professionals from across Canada and the United States.

"We felt that a joint meeting would present a unique opportunity for people from Canada and the United States to gather and discuss important issues affecting the profession," said Mary Evert, MBA, OTR, AOTA's president. "And I'm happy to say that our expectations were exceeded!"

"While the CAOT and AOTA have enjoyed a quiet but strong relationship and have shared expertise and experience on many professional issues at an administrative level, we believed our respective members would benefit from meeting with each other and learning together," explained Carole Mirkopoulos, Med. OT(C), CAOT's president.

Multicultural concerns, the provision of services in more community-based settings where clients work, play and live, national health initiatives in both countries, including health care reform and the impact of managed care on rehabilitation here in the United States—all of these developments were the subjects of discussion and presentation. In addition, attendees had the opportunity to visit more than 350 displays of the latest products and services in the profession, encompassing virtually every aspect of occupational therapy practice.

The Canadian Association of Occupational Therapists and the American Occupational Therapy Association, Inc., are national professional organizations with a combined membership of over 53,000 therapists, assistants and students. Both associations provide support, leadership and services to their members, and seek to improve the quality of occupational therapy services for consumers.

STORYTELLERS TO SPIN TALES IN SPRING GROVE

The 11th Illinois Storytelling Festival will be held Saturday and Sunday, July 30 and 31 in Spring Grove and will celebrate the richness and variety of storytelling traditions from across America, Europe and Africa.

Since the beginning of time every grouping of people has had its own stories that reflect the history, beliefs and experience of that group. Shanta

Donald Davis, a festival favorite who appeared on ABC's Nightline, will return to Spring Grove to tell touching and hilarious stories from his own heritage, growing up in the mountains of North Carolina. Spirit of Mundelein helps students soar to record books

RHONDA VINZANT

Editor in Chief

"The Spirit of Mundelein"—a plane built by Mundelein High School students—flew farther than any other student-built plane has done before.

A course charted by MHS students was flawless and a world record now reflects what MHS students can accomplish with pilots Jim Jackson and Tom Zentz at the controls.

The duo, flying the Lancair airplane, set the world record in the city-to-city category for speed over a recognized course upon landing in Inuvik, Alaska, July 8.

"It's a record in two respects. Not only for the speed and distance, but because no one else has ever flown a plane built by high school students this far." The round-trip journey was 8,000 miles.

Jackson, who teaches aviation technology at Mundelein High School, and Zentz, 25, of Wauconda, a flight instructor and an '87 graduate of Mundelein High School, set the record between July 2 and July 8 on a course from Kenosha, Wis. to Inuvik.

"This record gives a lot of credit to young people," said

Jackson as he exited the cockpit at the Kenosha Regional Airport.

On hand to greet the duo in Kenosha were family members, friends, a handful of Jackson's students and television crews from Milwaukee and Chicago. They returned July 14.

The first person to gain 15 seconds of Jackson's time was wife, Judy, who got a quick hug. But, when Jackson exited the cockpit it was the award-winning teacher in him that took over. He immediately greeted the six students who were standing on the run-way. Jackson's questions to them were about the portions of the course they had charted.

"Well, I'm here to tell you that you did a great job," Jackson said to each of the young men. "We had a great flight."

"I was elated to see the students here to greet me," Jackson said, beaming. "Many of them are working and had to travel a great distance to get here. I didn't expect it, but I'm thrilled."

In addition to the challenge of setting the world record, the mission of the journey was to photograph Glacier Bay for use in a research project Jackson and his students are undertaking in cooperation with Northern Illinois University. Students in his classes are building a research plane that will carry students and researchers to study glacial stability and global warming at Glacier Bay, Alaska.

The project dubbed "Alaska Bound," will bring Mundelein High School students with various academic skills to Glacier Bay for the research project in 1996.

Jackson, was one of only five teachers in the nation to be inducted into the National Teacher's Hall of Fame in 1993.

"He is very dedicated to his students. Teaching is his life," said his wife, Judy Jackson, holding back her emotion at his accomplishment. "He is very determined. This was for the students."

For the students who made the trip to the airport the moment of arrival was a moment of pride.

"This is history. He flew a student-built plane and used student charted courses," said Joel Vega, who will be a senior in the fall. Vega charted a portion of the course from Minnesota to Saskatchewan. "He is a very exciting teacher."

record breakers were: Brian Addmison, Mike Maagin, Dan Miller and his cousin Justin Pathman of Lake Zurich.

John Mayer, Jackson's colleague and best friend, also shared in the victorious moment.

"This is another feather in his cap," said Mayer. "He has been there for all of my triumphs. We are very close. I felt it was important to be here for his. I understand what this means to him."

"He is a real leader in innovation and education," said Mayer. "He is willing to take risks and do things that others wouldn't even try to do. He respects students and they respect him. That is so important."

Mayer and Jackson praised the administration and board of Mundelein High School for being willing to take risks with education.

"They are very supportive," said Mayer. "This program could never happen if the school and board didn't trust Jim and believe in the ability of students."

Tom Zentz graduate from Mundelein High School, but was never one of Jim's aviation students. His father was a career Air Force pilot who

"I really got interested in aviation in college," said Zentz, who currently works as a flight instructor for Airway Flight Services, Inc., in Wheeling. "I was See SPIRIT page B12

Forbidden fruits

by JIM WARNKEN,
PRESIDENT, NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

Chocolates from Belgium, coconuts from Mexico, cheese from Switzerland. Food items can be the most practical gifts to bring home from your journeys. If you've ever received an oversized Mexican sombrero from some relative who insists it would look great on the wall in your den, you'll understand what I mean. But which of those delectable edibles will be allowed to return with you?

Safe choices are bakery goods and candies. Fully cured cheeses such as Muenster, cheddar, Stilton and others, are allowed. Coconuts are O.K. if they do not have the husks. Dried foods such as coffee, tea or dried nuts will pass. Fruit is only allowed if it is dried or canned and processed, but it must still be declared. Canned meats are O.K. only if they are cooked to be shelf-stable and hermetically sealed. Jams and jellies, dried spices and canned or processed vegetables are also allowed.

On the forbidden side, we have uncured cheeses such as Ricotta, cottage cheese and Chevre, as well as other dairy products. Bacon and sausage, as well as any meat not treated as previously described and fresh fruits or vegetables are not allowed.

The U.S. is a little more liberal when your travel takes you to one of our neighboring countries. You can bring back fresh fruit from Canada, as well as most kinds of meats. Your visit to Mexico will allow you to bring back bananas, lemons, limes, melons, pineapples and some other fruits. Meats, with the exception of pork and poultry, will also clear the border from Mexico.

While you won't have to clear customs on your return home from Hawaii, the Dept. of Agriculture will want to make sure those beautiful flower leis are O.K. They must be treated and approved first. Pineapples and other fruits must also be approved for transport to the mainland.

Spirit

a friend of Jim's oldest son and we started talking about flying during a baseball game we all went to. After that, I began helping Jim with some of his planes."

Zentz co-piloted the journey to Alaska and back. It was the first-time he had piloted an aircraft on such a long flight.

"This was the ultimate challenge," said Zentz. "Getting up there and back and setting the world record. We had so many obstacles to deal with—the weather, terrain and boredom on the flight."

According to Jackson there were times during the flight when they went four or five hours without seeing a village or signs of civilization.

"I am very proud of what they accomplished," said Susan Zentz, of Wauconda, Tom's mother. Also on-hand was Tom's brother Tim Zentz and girlfriend Cathy Schnepf of Grayslake. The family had lived in Alaska for three years and Susan said that was one reason why Tom wanted to participate in the trip.

"I am very excited for him," Schnepf said. "This is a big accomplishment in his career."

"We saw the world open up," said Jackson. "We were on the top—we could see the polar ice-cap."

During the trip the duo made several fueling stops and visited local villages near the Arctic Circle.

"Many of the people we visited had never seen a plane like this," said Jackson. "I wish we'd had more time to spend with them."

The journey was recorded on a video for the student's use in the research project.

"The sad thing about this whole research project that we are taking on is that no one is offering to support us," said Jackson. "The grant applications to the federal government have been denied. "These are exciting opportunities for young students and we will make the project happen."

"They will get to share in this when school starts," said Jackson. "The photos and the video-tape will be a tremendous help with the project."

The Spirit of Mundein will undoubtedly live on in record books and in the hearts of students at Mundein High School and in the heart of Jim Jackson and Tom Zentz.

"I never doubted that we would make it," said Jackson. "This is just an example of what students can do when you believe in them."

Storytellers

This year personal accounts of "D-Day" are encouraged. Anyone interested in sharing a story can call the festival ahead of time or just come to a "story circle" at the festival.

The stories will be presented in four, large colorful tents set up in the Spring Grove village park in this lush Fox Valley village: one tent for children, one for adults, a large tent for the whole family, and of course, the "traditions tent," where informal, "kitchen-table" storytelling is welcomed and celebrated.

Perhaps the most popular event year in and year out is the Ghost Stories 'Til Midnight segment Saturday night.

Listeners walk a candle-lit path through the woods, cross a bridge and enter the enchanted meadow where Haunted Tales will be told in the moonlight.

Other events include a liar's contest on Saturday afternoon and the general store, both of which are open mics, available to anyone on the festival grounds who wishes to tell a story.

A special storytelling seminar with Duncan Williamson will be offered on Saturday morning from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. prior to the festival. This will be an opportunity to hear Duncan, described by the Glasgow Herald as the "bearer of the richest oral tradition in Europe." Born in 1928 in a tent on the shores of Loch Fyne in Argyll, the seventh child in a family of 16 children, Duncan promised himself at an early age that he would never forget a story or ballad that he heard around the fires when his family camped in multi-generational clans as they moved around Scotland following the work as the seasons changed, and gathering food from the countryside and seashore.

Folklorists at the School of Scottish Studies in Edinburgh believe that Duncan knows some 3,000 stories. Many volumes of his stories have been published including "A Thorn in the King's Foot: Folktales of the Scottish Traveling People," (Penguin, 1987). Advance registration recommended. Call 815-678-4773.

The festival is held rain or shine under large tents in Spring Grove's village park. Though there is ample seating under the tents, blankets and lawn chairs are welcome. Spring Grove is on Rte. 12, four miles north of Fox Lake; six miles north of McHenry; and 12 miles south of Lake Geneva, Wis.

The festival will begin Saturday, July 30 at noon and run until 6 p.m.; square dancing for novice and expert alike featuring traditional calls will be held from 6:30 to 8 p.m. preceding the Ghost Stories, which will conclude the evening, 9 p.m. to midnight. The festival gates reopen Sunday morning at 10 a.m. with sacred stories, and stories of all kinds continue until 6 p.m.

Admission to the festival is $10 for each event.

For more information, call 815-678-4773.

Wheel deals need female perspective

With the end of my lease approaching, I decided it was time this weekend to pick out a new set of wheels. Choosing a vehicle is a very personal decision, and my husband insists that men and women approach it from entirely different perspectives.

I suppose he could be right. For example, he always goes for the tried and true. Every two years my husband buys a new Ford F150 from his friend, Rob who owns a Ford dealership. He simply picks up the phone, tells Rob what kind of options he wants, how much he can afford to pay, and next thing you know, he has a new truck.

Convenience is his main objective. No shopping. No haggling.

I, on the other hand, never purchase the same vehicle twice. That would be like wearing the same expensive evening dress to more than one party, attended by the same group of people. Puh-lease!

I also have very specific criteria for my purchase. My last car I bought for two good reasons. One, because the salesman treated me as though I knew a V-6 from a V-8 (one of them has tomato juice in it, that much I know). Two, because it looked like a "girl" car (in other words, it had a pink "flame" on the side).

And then there's the fun part—haggling over the price. In my 20's, I was actually under the impression that salesmen told the truth. Big mistake. I imagine they have some sort of ultraviolet light in the showroom that can detect rookie car buyers. When you walk in the door, the word "Sucker" appears in fluorescent letters on your forehead, and you are doomed to pay sticker price.

Live and learn. I now realize that in order to deal with salesmen, you have to be as devious as they are. First, you bring your entire family with to look at the car. As you approach the showroom with your husband and four children, the salesman has a vision of dollar bills flying from his pockets.

Next, butter him up a little. For every compliment he gives you, give him two. The more he likes you, the less he'll want to separate you from your wallet and next week's groceries. If he has children, ask to see their pictures; or compliment him on that lovely leisure suit he's wearing.

Meanwhile, your children should be running wild all over the showroom. An entire bag of gummy bears for each child one half hour before your showroom visit should do the trick. This provides him with incentive to make a quick sale. And, of course, a quick sale is dependent on a good price.

It worked for me. I'm picking up my new Dodge Caravan tomorrow. I told him my bottom line was $300, and he returned with a price of $309, less than I was paying for my last car. I came home feeling like I'd gotten a good deal.

But then I began to think—what if I had told him $275 was my bottom line? Or $250? Had I really gotten the best price? Now I realize I'll never be quite sure just who was fooling who.

Still, it doesn't matter. What does matter is the color—it's white. It will match all my outfits.

Pasta salad adds color to any summertime meal

Pasta is one food item that can be used year-round and make any meal a success. A light-and-peppy side dish can be a hit at any summer picnic or potluck dinner. A simple pasta salad that takes little time to make and can impress both family and friends alike. Tasty fresh ingredients are the mainstay of any good salad, which can be kept fat-free or low-fat depending on taste.

The following recipe for summer pasta salad includes sharp cheddar cheese, but others can be substituted. Strong colored vegetables with good texture should be used.

Summer Pasta Salad

8-ounces of colored spiral noodles

8-ounces of pinwheel noodles

1 small purple onion

1 red pepper

1 yellow pepper

2 small tomatoes

8-ounce brick of sharp cheddar cheese

8-ounce bottle of Italian dressing

Cook noodles according to package instructions. While noodles are cooking, prepare vegetables and cheese by cutting them into bite-sized cube pieces. About half of the peppers should be enough. Cut onion in half horizontally and separate rings by hand, cutting smaller if necessary. Drain noodles in colander and cool with cold water. Place noodles in large bowl, introduce prepared mixture to the noodles and mix with either large spoon or hands. Pour dressing over noodles, refrigerate and let soak-in over night. Place noodles into attractive container and serve.—by SPENCER SCHEIN

Roberts, Nolte slip in 'Trouble'

The biggest female star in Hollywood, Julia Roberts, won't remain on that top rung long if she doesn't get herself a big picture.

Her last two, "Pelican Brief," and "I Love Trouble," had good casts, good directors, and yet turned out to be rather mediocre movies.

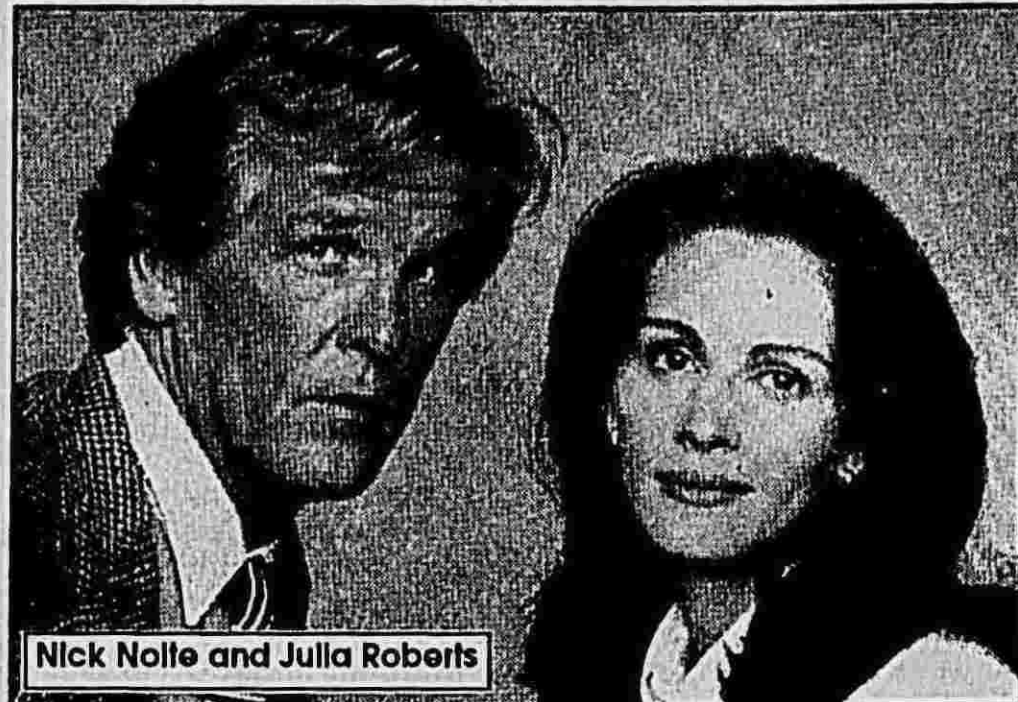

Our Pretty Woman has turned into a stunt girl in these last two, doing many of her own dangerous tricks in "Trouble," according to the publicity insiders.

"Trouble" is the very ordinary story of two reporters from competing papers after the same story. Of course they end up helping each other in all the danger they encounter.

Despite the good directing, and the marvelous cast, we just didn't believe this one.

And although we saw a few sparks of good acting on the part of both of our stars, Roberts for the most part employed the same hand-twisting, lip-biting role she has played in most of her recent pictures.

This is a Disney flick, and somehow the innate morality of most of the movies coming from that studio tampers with the natural nastiness that gives these actions flicks their meat! But after all, we still will admit that we like Roberts and Nick Nolte enough to have enjoyed the picture anyway.

Nick Nolte and Julia Roberts

Because of the Disney influence, and the familiarity of the plot, this one turns out to be an overdone serving of chicken. And yet we found it to be a light and fluffy bit of mystery that was a lot of fun in spots. So we are rating it 2.5 for its mundaneness, and adding another .5 point because we enjoyed it despite its faults, giving it three out of five stars.—by GLORIA DAVIS

Texas Rubies country music to hit center stage

The Texas Rubies, Kelly Kessler and Jane Baxter Miller.

The Texas Rubies with a new brand of country music earning creditable review from Nashville to Chicago and beyond will be on the Center Stage Amphitheater of the Lincolnshire Corporate Center.

Their nearly hour long free performance for the public and employees of the three corporate parks being developed and managed by Van Vlissingen and Co., Lincolnshire, will begin at noon on Wednesday, Aug. 3.

The amphitheater in the 304-acre corporate park is next to the 36-acre lake alongside Milwaukee Avenue at One Overlook Point, Lincolnshire.

The Texas Rubies music is robust, with lusty and colorful singing by Jane Baxter Miller; born in Kentucky to a coal mining family, she is termed by some as "the girl who can really sing."

Kelly Kessler, who was born in Indiana and attended school in Kentucky where she learned the trade of being a potter, writes many of the songs. Her expert guitar moves people to dance in the aisles.

Their country music is about strong women, those who can stand up for themselves as opposed to the more traditional country music lyrics about women as victims.

The Texas Rubies specialize in tight harmonies, witty stage banter and deft guitar work. Their music moves into the areas of humor, of toughness or "tell-it-like-it-is songs."

The Van Vlissingen concert series is held every other Wednesday during the summer. The 1994 series will conclude Aug. 17 with a performance by the Steel Express playing the music of the Caribbean.

People attending the concert might want to bring a lunch and some chairs or blanket to spread out although there also is seating in the amphitheater.

Bigger the better

This is a complaint about the stupid people who complain about the sign in Hainesville on Rte 120. It is 30 feet up in the air and is not blocking anything. If you travel down Washington St., you can see every intersection has old-fashioned signs on the ground blocking everything. This one in Hainesville is high up and is a nice looking sign.

Very civil

I learned something interesting in Wauconda. If a man intentionally does thousands of dollars of damage to your home, don't call the police. It is a civil domestic matter. If he threatens your life, don't call the police. It is a civil domestic matter. If he prowls around your home, it is the same thing. Pardon me for asking, but I was just wondering what the police are for?

Fox Lake gamble

I'd like to know if the Fox Lake board of trustees and the mayor want a riverboat so bad, then why don't they park one at the mayor's home. Maybe then they would enjoy it better and go over there to gamble.

Fox Lake's own paper

I am sick and tired of hearing about that Grayslake library. People in Fox Lake don't want to hear about this. This is our paper.

Cheer them all

I was really mad to find out that Grant High School Varsity Cheerleaders got their pictures in the paper. What about the freshmen and the sophomores? Don't we get recognition too?

Band played on

I want to commend the members of the city band who played at the Round Lake Rec Center. It reminded me of when I was a kid in Lake Forest. The city band used to play every Saturday night during W.W.II and the whole town would turn out to listen. We really enjoyed it. Keep up the good work.

OK Railroad

I was just reading the complaints about the library site. I have lived about 200 feet from the tracks since 1985, and it's not bad. During the summer with the window open it gets a little louder. If the library is properly built with insulated walls it won't be a problem.

Please buckle up

I saw a young lady in a purple Nissan Pulsar NX in Round Lake Beach near Omni today. I nearly cried. She was driving that little sled without her seatbelt on. But more frightening, there was a cute little girl standing up in the front seat without a seatbelt on either. I would say that is child abuse but, because of a terrible mistake I made, I think it is even worse. I had a little girl just over a year old. She was very fussy in her car seat and I got tired of hearing her whine. I took her out of her seat and continued driving. That is when my horror started. I had a minor accident and came out of it fine. My baby-the most beautiful little girl in the world-died from severe head trauma. I haven't had another baby yet. Everyday now, I wish I could hear my little baby girl cry again. That would be the most beautiful sound in the world to me. I beg you. Please, please, please, if you don't want to wear a seatbelt, at least save your children.

Took the 400

I was wondering how long it was going to take. Former Mayor Ed Schroeder has come from underneath his rock. The premier tax watchdog person of Grayslake is once again bashing the park district of Grayslake because of his petty jealousies. In 1987 a citizen of Grayslake told the then mayor to leave the Park District alone. He had his feelings hurt and never got over that. I can't believe he is supporting the library. Mr. tax watchdog of Grayslake, wake up. Your friends at the library stole $400,000 from you. Is that the way to spend tax monies. Is that the way you administrated the village when you were mayor?

Last Lipservice rites

I'm complaining about your Lipservice. Every time I call, you don't put it in. I'm tired of it. I think I'm going to cancel my subscription. You say in your message that you'll print anything and you never print anything.

She is news

I'm responding to 'Dance fever.' If your kid is not good enough for someone to recommend her, then you've got a problem. The mayor's daughter was recommended by other people. She has real talent and real talent gets front page coverage. As far as begging goes, she did not beg. Maybe your daughter should go out and get what she wants.

Hasta la vista, baby

At last Grayslake is finding out what the Park District is really like. Among other things, they played openly in me selling and moving from Grayslake. I miss Grayslake, but I don't miss the Park District. I'm gone.

Master of dance

As a person with a master's degree in theater, I am saddened to see that people view raising support for a dance program as nepotism and a ridiculous thing for a girl to do. If this were a sport or a camp no one would have a problem. Look at our Olympians, they raise large sums each year to train. This is the same thing, only on a smaller scale. There is no way she will get corporate training for her dancing. Specialized training is expensive. Front page coverage has nothing to do with her being mayor. I support what is going on.

Circle of life

This is about Gloria Davis' review of 'The Lion King.' I too am disgusted with all the pre-movie hype and merchandising that accompanies Disney movies, but was not let down one bit by the movie. The villain was not as terrifying as Jafar or Ursula in the 'The Little Mermaid.' Why not introduce children to tragedy in the animal world. It is the best place to learn something they will inevitably learn in real life. I think it was great.

Ameritech to provide Braille

WAUKEGAN—Starting in August, Ameritech will begin offering its monthly phone bills in Braille and large-type print for its blind and visually impaired customers. "Obviously, our visually impaired customers rely on the phone for communicating to a great extent, so we want to help them in any way we can," said Nancy Miller, Ameritech billing manager. "Some of our customers have been asking for this, and we're glad to say we're now able to offer it to them." Horizons for the Blind, a Carpentersville nonprofit organization, will print a copy of the billing statement in Braille or large-type print, which would be included as a supplement to the standard Ameritech bill. Customers may request a Braille or large-print bill by calling an Ameritech service center, open 24 hours Monday through Saturday, at 1-800-244-4444.

Round Lake Beach growth reflects county trend

NEAL TUCKER

Staff Reporter

Real estate experts believe Round Lake Beach is an excellent location for a new Super Kmart. The 191,000 square-foot department/grocery store just west of Rte 83 on Rollins Rd is just part of the rapidly expanding retail base in Round Lake Beach.

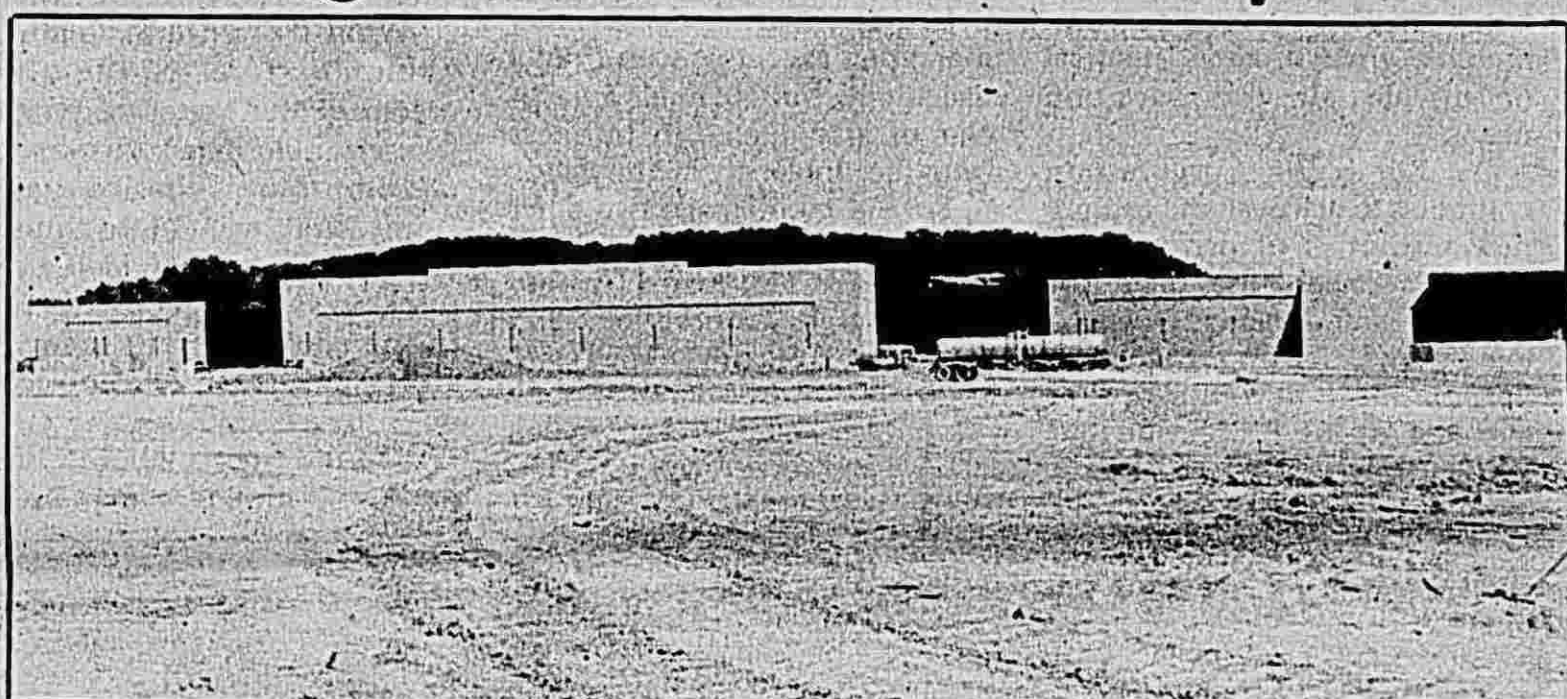

Mayor Ralph Davis sees the Tucker Properties Corp. development as launching point for the things to come in the village of 22,000 residents.

"I see the building of Super K as a key factor in the development of Rollins Rd," Davis said.

The plan Davis has for the village is to increase commercial development to supplement the residential tax base. At last count, there were seven residential developers active in Round Lake Beach, compared to only one commercial developer.

"I reviewed studies and no matter what, new homes do not pay for themselves," Davis said regarding the ratio of taxes to the services that must be provided for new homes.

The new Super K, is part of a 400,000 square-foot development on 51-acres of land on the former Hook's Farm property. Tucker Properties is building a 110,000 square-foot pad, hoping to lease it to home a national home improvement chain. If that does not occur, the space can be subdivided into two or three smaller anchor stores. Another 60,000 square feet is available for smaller specialty stores.

A 400,000 square-foot shopping center is being constructed in Round Lake Beach. The development, on the north side of Rollins Rd just west of Rte 83, will house a 191,000 square-foot Super Kmart, which is a combination grocery store/department store.—Photo by Bill Dermody Jr.

Four outlots are available. Three of them will house a hardware store, an auto supply store, and a sit-down family restaurant. The fourth building, at 12,000 square feet, will house several specialty retailers. This may not be the last that Round Lake Beach will see of Tucker Properties.

"We also purchased an option to develop 20 acres to the west of the Super K development," said Larry Tucker, Vice President of the Northbrook-based developer.

Tucker Properties has 18 months to exercise the option. If taken, the plans call for a 200,000 square-foot retail site including outlots. For now, construction of the Super K is on schedule for the February 1995 opening.

Davis is most pleased with developments that will be happening around the Super K site. Behind the structure to the north will be a retention lake. The area will be landscaped and surrounded by a hiking trail, connected to a park. The land was donated by the Hook's Farm.

Nearby will be a commuter train station. The station will be behind the Wal-Mart building with access off Rte 83.

"I envision this area as a town center," Davis said.

State bar selects Lake County attorney as chief

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

The Illinois State Bar Association (ISBA) has a new president. David Decker, a Waukegan attorney, was installed as the ISBA's 118th president.

Decker hopes to focus his administration on merit selection for judges. "The people who are called on to vote, do not know the judges," explained Decker. Currently, judges are selected by voters and Decker believes that nonpartisan selection of candidates evaluated by panels of lawyers and non-lawyers will net the highest quality judges.

During elections, most voters are unfamiliar with the judicial candidates. State and local bar associations often provide candidate evaluations to help inform voters, but many times these information sheets are ignored. Without adequate information, voters may select judges based on surnames, gender, or race. Which, unfortunately, does not always yield the best candidates.

As a result of the selection process, Decker believes many qualified candidates do not even attempt to run for the available spots. "A judge is different from the legislature," said Decker. "This campaign and election process often precludes good attorneys from running. Even the best of candidates realize it can be a crap-shoot and just don't bother to run."

"The primary thing is to attract the best candidates for judges," Decker continued.

Another issue Decker would like to address during his year as chief is the time and expense involved in civil litigation. "The process of pre-trial discovery has at times gotten too excessive and has been abused," said Decker.

Decker has several ideas to relieve the situation such as allowing the presiding judge greater discretion to limit or bar the use of expert witnesses. "Hired experts have become a cottage industry," he said. "As a result, they increase the cost and time of litigation."

Limiting depositions is another way Decker wants to streamline civil cases. "Depositions - too many are taken," he explained. "They become unbearably lengthy. The villain is the billable hour."

Annual billable hour goals, which many new attorneys in larger law firms face almost encourage dragging out discovery. The new attorney schedules as many depositions as possible in order to make yearly quotas as they work towards partnership.

"The lure is not to do them expediently," said Decker. "This presents a dilemma to young associates who are required to make annual billing quotas."

"A few law firms are starting to do end result billing," Decker continued. "They are billing on a result oriented basis instead of hourly, of course, allowing for

Rotorcraft expansion attracts helicopter specialists

Rotorcraft Corporation expanded its human resources fleet with the addition of H. Kenneth Trovato, Jr., at the head of its helicopter sales and leasing division.

Rotorcraft Corporation's helicopters, available locally and internationally, can be chartered, bought or leased for any commercial, governmental, medical or private air transportation needs.

As Rotorcraft Corporation continues to discover and explore new territories of private helicopter services, the need for qualified staff editions remains a top priority. Trovato, Rotorcraft Corporation's new director of sales and leasing, brings with him a broad background as both a business manager and as a commercially rated helicopter pilot.

Immediately before coming to Rotorcraft Corporation, Trovato worked as vice president of operations for Rotorcraft Partnerships Ltd., a competitor in the helicopter services industry. Before that he worked as a senior marketing executive with Contel Executone, Inc. He holds a bachelor of arts degree in business from the University of Maryland.

Several months ago two other employees of Rotorcraft Partnerships Ltd. joined Trovato at Rotorcraft Corporation. Bob Yapito and David LeMaire are Rotorcraft Corporation's new comptroller and director of maintenance and service, respectively.

Island Lake resident Satnam "Sam" Kahlon and his family opened their second store July 14, and business just keeps picking up.

Kahlon's other store is located in Rolling Meadows where his rolls and pastries are made fresh daily and transported in the early morning hours to his Island Lake café.

What's unique about Kahlon's store, is the shop caters to the tastes of people year round. When the weather's hot there's the ice cream items that appeal to many, although a cup of iced cappuccino sounds good anytime. In the cooler months a cup of steamy espresso or cappuccino is always inviting.

"That's the whole idea (behind this)," explained

The ice creams and yogurts the store owner prefers to use are all-natural from a company called The Ice Cream Club. There are always at least 16 different hard flavors of ice cream at the Donut Express.

Kahlon said he's happy he opened a shop in the town he lives in. "I like being in Island Lake," said the owner while whipping up a mocha cappuccino for a customer.

MURPHY ON REAL ESTATE

Earnest money: what to expect

You finally find a home with all the amenities you have dreamed of; the perfect neighborhood, just the right sized lot and a great location to shopping and the kids' schools. It's time to let the sellers know just how serious you are by executing a contract to purchase or make an offer. Contractual law states that there must be a "consideration" or a money exchange.

There is no universal rule of thumb about "earnest" money and how much is appropriate, or what is good enough to satisfy the seller. The idea behind the earnest money is to show the seller that you are "earnest" or serious about your intention to purchase the property. Some agreements are set up to accept as much as five to 10 percent of the purchase price for the amount. In many cases, the amount of earnest money was designed to cover the brokerage in the event of a default. There are listing agreements that state if there is a default, the earnest money is spoken for to cover brokerage, and the balance paid to the seller.

The question you must ask as a seller is "Is that enough money to make me comfortable?" If that is the case, the seller must simply decide whether or not that is suitable for their needs.

With FHA or VA offers, very little earnest money is required due to the fact that the mortgage amount is usually around 95 percent or more. That does not mean, of course, that the buyer is not serious about their intention to purchase. The idea is that a buyer will not be inclined to walk away from a transaction if there is a chance for substantial loss in the way of earnest money.

It is interesting to note just what happens to your earnest money once it has been paid. Very often, the initial gesture until the offer is accepted can be from $500 to $1,000. After a period of a certain amount of days, usually 10 to 15 days, the accelerated amount is due to be paid to the seller. This delay allows for all the riders to be paid to the seller. This delay allows for all the riders to be fulfilled, like inspections, attorney approval, or other contingencies to be settled before receiving the balance in full. Generally, these funds are held by the listing broker, or the attorney's for the parties.

It must be put in a separate account and not be "co-mingled" with other funds. Many times the buyer will request that these moneys be put in an interest bearing account which benefits the buyer until the closing, so as not to lose interest in the interim. There is a rider form that must be endorsed by both the buyer and seller that the government is interested in to ascertain who made interest during a real estate transaction. Even though the seller does not benefit from the interest, the form requires their endorsement.

In the event of a default, the money is not easily returnable. Both parties must agree to have the funds released. The real estate broker can only function as a "holding" entity and cannot pass judgment on its release in the event of a disagreement. The real estate broker must protect these funds in an "escrow" account and be able to readily show the funds are protected for the benefits of both parties.

Just remember that earnest money is "good faith" money, and is there to promote the confidence of the buyer for the seller and is held to consummate the transaction. On the few rare occasions a property does not close, counseling from your local real estate attorney can help keep things clear.

contingency amounts for unexpected costs."

Decker is also planning to form an ad-hoc committee to propose legislation offering alternatives to jail for minor drug related legislation. "The war on drugs is generally considered a failure," said Decker. Noting that the bulk of court case load in Cook County is drug related, Decker wants to look at some alternatives to jail, such as boot camp, hospitalization, detox, and testing.

"We need to get the person out of the criminal law system," said Decker. "This will save money on jail costs, and reserve the penitentiary for the hard criminals. There are some people in the penitentiary for a relatively small amount of drug possession."

Decker is a partner in the firm Decker and Linn, Ltd. His specialty is in personal injury litigation. Decker lives in Lake Bluff and was born and raised in Gurnee. He is married and has three grown children.

Besides his installation as president of the ISBA, Decker was also recently inducted into the International Academy of Trial Lawyers, making him one out of only 500 attorneys in the United States to be inducted. Decker is a graduate of Lake Forest College and attended Northwestern University Law School. He was admitted to the bar in 1964.

Red Seal wins awards

NORTHBROOK—Red Seal Development Corp. and Red Seal/Jacobs Homes Inc. were awarded nine times for the communities of Winchester Estates-Buffalo Grove, Sedgewood Cove and the Villas at Manchester Greens at the fifth annual scattered site Lake County Tour of Homes.

The Tour included 43 builders and 60 homes, ranging from starter houses to estates. A team of judges, provided by the Home Builders Association of Lake County (HBALC) voted on the homes.

According to Barbara Anderson, association administrator, the awards give consumer recognition to the builders.

"Our philosophy has always been to provide the best product for our customers, in whatever price range we are building," said Red Seal President David Hoffman. "Being acknowledged by our peers shows us that we are doing exactly what we set out to do."

Red Seal's Winchester Estates-Buffalo Grove townhome community was awarded four times for its model, the Ashton. The Ashton is the largest of three floor plans at Winchester Estates-Buffalo Grove, where homes range in size from 1,946 to 2,542 square feet and are priced from $221,900 to $259,900.

Sedgewood buyers win boat

LINDENHURST—To celebrate the grand opening of Sedgewood Cove on Crooked Lake, Red Seal Development Corp. raffled off a brand-new sailboat. Winners of the Snark by Sundancer, valued at $1,095, were Nancy and Ronald Cielek of Vernon Hills.

Located on the shores of Crooked Lake in north suburban Lindenhurst, Sedgewood Cove features 134 single-family homes set on a bluff overlooking Crooked Lake.

According to David Hoffman, president of Northbrook-based Red Seal, "The centerpiece of Sedgewood Cove is the lake, so we decided to treat one of our buyers to something they could use at their new home—a sailboat," he said. All residents will have access to the lake and boat storage and piers are planned so people may enjoy the water.

Body shop technicians complete collision repair course at Sterling

KEVIN HANRAHAN

Staff Reporter

You hear about computer technicians going back to school to be updated on the latest technology. Lawyers continuously have to be abreast of new laws, and teachers many times return to school to pick up a master's or doctorate degree.

But body shop technicians going back to school?

For eight weeks body shop technicians, managers and insurance representatives attended a collision repair course which concluded July 9 at Sterling Finish's state-of-the-art facility in Grayslake.

The course was offered by Jim Gersema of the Inter-Industry Conference on Auto Collision Repair. Gersema offers up-to-date instruction across the state and the nation.

"The aspect of continued education is probably the necessity this industry is hearing loudly," Gersema said.

Many responded to that call,

Gersema said, as 35 to 75 people attended the various seminars on analyzing car damage, measuring techniques, welding, replacing structural components, corrosion protection, suspension, steering, alignment and many other subjects.

Gone are the days when car owners can take their wrecked car to the local body shop and have the repairman rubber hammer dents. Today's body technician restores the car to its original condition, as if it were purchased new.

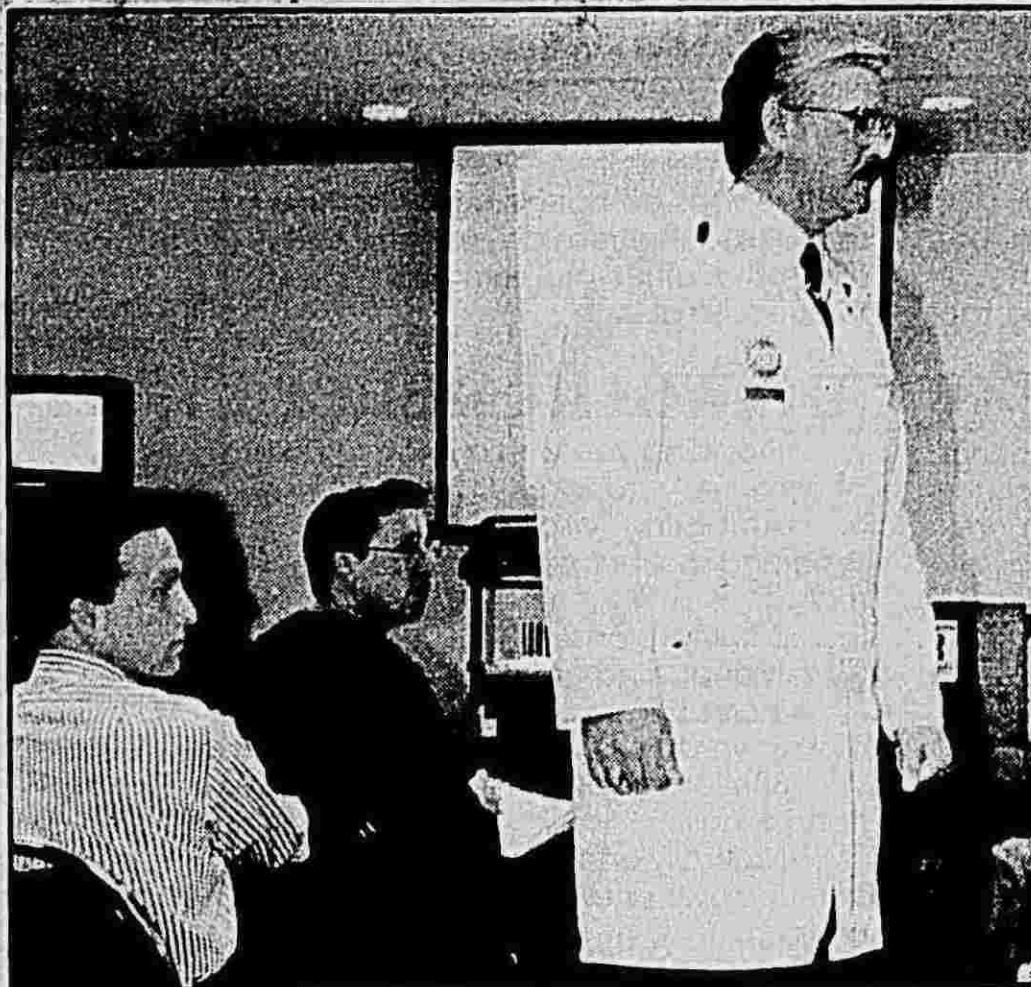

"The automotive industry is demanding more specially trained technicians than it ever has in the past," Gersema said, "and the repair industry is responding to that."

Gersema said feedback from shop owners and managers has been positive about the collision repair course. He also added that holding the classes at Sterling Finish may have helped to boost attendance.

Sterling Finish is one of the largest and most modern body shops in the Midwest. In fact, it has a mini auditorium specifically designed to hold continued education classes.

"It's unusual to have a classroom in a body shop. It's usually held in the body shop where repairs are done," Gersema said. "Sterling Finish is first-class all the way."

Gersema noted the continued education is a "win-win" situation for everybody—technicians, insurance personnel, and most importantly, the car owner.

Jim Gersema, from the Inter-Industry Conference on Auto Collision Repair, lectures a gathering of people from the fields of auto body repair and insurance on the changing face of their industry. The course, held at Sterling Finish in Grayslake, continued over an eight week period with 35 to 75 people in attendance.—Photo by Kevin Hanrahan

GREEN UP

Lakeland
Newspapers

Time to take action on stressed out summer lawns

Hot weather of summer can put lots of stress on lawns and other turf areas. Take action to help lawns get through the heat in good condition.

One of the first modifications for summer should be to mow the lawn higher. A cut of up to three inches is suggested. If in doubt set the mower as high as it will go for the summer. Grass maintained at a higher height of cut withstands heat better, dries out slower, usually develops deeper roots, and has less crabgrass invasions than closely mowed turf.

Summer rainfall varies from year to year, but is seldom enough to keep a lawn green all summer. Lake County homeowners should decide early whether to water all summer as the lawn needs it to stay green or let the lawn go dormant. Do not let the lawn turn brown and then decide to water it back to a green condition, then allow it to turn brown, etc. This depletes energy reserves and stresses the plant. Dormant lawns need only one-quarter to one-half inch of water every two to three weeks to keep root and crown tissue alive.

When watering, do it early in the day if at all possible. Water deeply and infrequently, applying about 1 to 1 1/2 inches per application, depending on site variables. Be sure water soaks in. Watch for early signs of a need to water the turf, including footprints remaining after walking on the grass and an overall dark color of wilting turf.

Most other lawn care practices are best left until the early fall period. These practices would include fertilizing, thatch control, and applying weed killers. If applying fertilizer in early summer, be sure to use a slow release or controlled release nitrogen fertilizer and keep application rates low.

Seeding lawn areas is also best left until early fall, rather than summer. Lawn grasses trying to get established in summer are competing with many annual weeds, along with the heat.

Seedling blight potential will also be higher in hot weather.

Help prevent additional lawn stress on your lawn this summer by keeping foot and vehicle traffic off the grass as much as possible during the heat.

More pines for the garden

Driving north in Lake County on Hunt Club Road the other day I noticed a wonderful looking Scotch Pine on the berm for Gurnee Mills Shopping Center. Judging by its age, this plant had been around and was definitely the specimen piece for the berm. I only wish they would have highlighted it more by using low groundcover under and around the drip line of the plant. Instead of mass planting of Austrian Pines near the Scotch Pine.

Another beautiful specimen, Lacebark Pine jumped out at us the other day as we were walking a nursery row here in Lake County. The bark, exfoliating in patches like a planer tree showed irregular whitish, brownish areas interspersed; great back character. Patience is a must for this plant since its rate of growth is very slow. This plant prefers well drained soils and sunny conditions and supposedly tolerates limestone. Its native habitat: China, 1846.

I feel I need to mention some Pinus Mugo varieties that may suit your gardens for the Lake County area. The Pinus Mugo "Gnom," broad, pyramidal, semi-dwarf variety developed in Boskoop, the Netherlands. The Pinus Mugo "Mops" is widely planted, compact globose and a dwarf form. For a very prostrate form nothing matches the Pinus Mugo var. pumillo. It will get 10-feet wide at maturity. A selection of this is "Esueld Select" and was selected from seedlings. For a yellow needled Pinus Mugo, the "Wintergold" will really show off in the winter months with a nice yellow color. A nice bonsai plant is the Pinus Mugo "Valley Cushion" flattened true dwarf.

Another great pine for residential settings is the Pinus Parviflora "Glauc" a Japanese five needled pine which forms an open crown and shows a nice silvery-blue somewhat twisted needle. The cones are very showy and in large quantities even on young trees. This cultivar is frequently used for bonsai, however is fairly common in the landscape and looks better with age. For smaller garden spaces the Pinus Parviflora "Glauc Hana" should be used since its the dwarf variety. The showier the foliage, the more twisted the needles, the more contorted the shape of the plant, the more accent a plant will be in a garden. And the pine, like some people I know, get better and better with age.—by MIKE GRECO, landscape architect, owner of Mill Creek Nursery, Wadsworth.

Slime flux—a disease of many trees

Slime flux, which is also called Wetwood, causes trees to foam at certain times of the year. Slime flux is a disease on many kinds of trees. Elm, maples, oaks, ash, linden, etc. can get this. However, it is most often found on elms. The cause of slime flux is not known. What is known is as follows:

The sap ferments.

Fermentation is anaerobic (no oxygen) and thus smells.

The fermentation builds up internal pressure and can blow off the leaves if there is no opening for the sap to drain out.

Sap becomes extremely alkaline.

The alkaline sap can bleach out the bark color if it runs down the side of the trees' trunk.

If the alkaline sap drips on to a root, too long, it will kill the root, even though the alkaline sap does not kill the root when the sap is still in the vascular tissue.

There is no chemical control.

At one time, perforated lead pipes or galvanized pipes were put into holes drilled into the trunks on an upward angle to drain the tree. Usually the pipe was drilled a short way below a bleeding wound. This was done to allow the wound to close. Eventually, the tree grew larger and the pipe became buried in the tree.

The buried pipes could become a serious health risk when the tree was cut down. If a pipe is used now, it is usually plastic. However, no pipe is recommended. The cost of inserting it does not justify doing it.

The trees do not generally die from slime flux. If the trees do die there is usually some other problem that causes the trees to die.

Plants can make our world better

According to the Garden Council, plants can help you make a world of difference in the environment—beginning in your own backyard. Plants are not only beautiful but they work diligently by:

- Cleaning the air by removing harmful chemicals indoors and out.
- Preventing wind and soil erosion.
- Reducing heating and cooling costs by shading and insulating the home.
- Making your home and backyard a more enjoyable place to be.

• Providing you with a relaxing form of exercise: gardening.

• Attracting wildlife by providing food and shelter for birds and small animals.

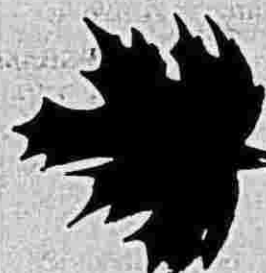

• Adding pleasure to your life with sweet scents and great tastes.

• Increasing the quiet and seclusion of your yard.

• Sheltering you from glaring sun or harsh winds.

• Naturally and screening out undesirable views and enhancing pleasant ones.

Griefnotes

How do I help the elderly at the time of a funeral?

Death of a loved one is painful. There is a tendency to believe that the elderly adjust more easily because they "should" anticipate the loss. Having more time to prepare does not guarantee that grieving will be easier. The elderly may have fewer resources such as friends, money or good health. Losing a partner or long time friend may mean living life alone at a time when a person may be least able to be independent. Support from family and friends at this time is most important. Being over protective or taking away a person's independence by making decisions for them is not desirable and may be harmful. Help the elderly begin their adjustment by attending the funeral and offering specific help.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

G: I have been working as a secretary to a V-P of a small company for the past eleven years. My salary is in the high 30's with no benefits except for paid holidays. My computer skills are limited to WordPerfect which I taught myself when it first came out and my boss purchased our computer for the office. My typing speed is somewhere in the high 50 wpm range, and I have been the right hand to this sales professional for so long and now he is moving out of state.
I cannot uproot my family and therefore I am seeking other employment. The interviews that I have been on have resulted in two offers of secretarial employment with very reputable corporations, (names withheld). The problem is my salary. I am finding that both offered me a salary of $26-$28,500 but I turned them both down due to the low wages. Both corporations were surprised, they said, at my turning down the positions, but I need to hold out for more money which I am accustomed to. I don't feel I should settle for less. What is the going rate for a secretary with eleven years experience with only WordPerfect? Am I being unreasonable? What do you suggest?
Thank you. J.K. - Libertyville

A: Dear J.K. No one likes to take a cut in salary if at all possible.
There does come a time, however, with cases of longevity, where one can literally be priced out of the market this can easily be understood while employees usually receive increases in salary once per year, the raises after eleven years can add up, thus putting you in a salary category that exceeds current market. Currently (depending on the level of secretary and excluding entry level), secretarial positions in our area range from $20-$30,000. My suggestion is to realize that there are companies out there that can utilize your talents and experience and not only offer you a respectable salary, but benefits galore, which of course you are not used to having. At this time I would suggest that you weigh out any and all offers with the benefit package looked upon as wages as well. The two corporations you mentioned (although I held out their names), are well respected when it comes to salary and benefits. While you are used to receiving only holiday pay for the past eleven years, you could now benefit from receiving benefits such as Medical, Dental, Vision, Tuition, 401K, profit sharing and so may other benefits out there that employers are taking advantage of to boost employee spirit and productivity. While you mentioned that you have turned down these two opportunities, perhaps the door has not slammed shut. It probably would not hurt to contact the individuals who made the offers to you and take a chance that the positions are still available. With a bit of explanation perhaps one can be yours. Let me know how it turns out. - Good Luck.

Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee.
Letters can be sent to Nancy at 5101 Washington St., Gurnee, IL 60031.

PLACER

The 2499 square foot Placer is a home ideally suited to a family that enjoys living and likes to entertain. The minute relatives and friends enter into this beautiful home through the barrel vaulted entry, they will applaud your choice of floor plans. Immediately inside, the foyer embraces a fountain that is pleasing to the eye and is an indication of what is to come.
The vaulted living room, with an energy efficient pellet stove, affords a cozy retreat to gather for conversation or a game of Canasta on a chilly winter evening. The adjoining dining room, also vaulted, creates a large central great room area. A sliding glass door allows the fun to be taken outdoors on the huge vaulted, covered back deck, awash with skylights. Weather permitting, this will be the place for barbecues or a stimulating soak in the optional spa.
The innovative kitchen is a delight for the busy cook in the house. With a central cooktop island, serving either informally in the sunlit breakfast nook, or on a more formal occasion in the dining room, is a snap. A built-in dishwasher and large garden window are other prominent features. A handy walk-in pantry is nearby.
A family theater really lets you entertain. Seat your guests in comfort and let the movies begin. Complete with vaulted ceilings, aisle ramps, its own snack bar and separate entrance, you can watch the films you choose in this luxurious setting.
The impressive, vaulted master suite is equally luxurious. It features an enormous bathroom with separate toilets and basins, a large walk-in closet and linen storage. There is private access to the deck and plenty of windows. The adjacent home office can be utilized for a variety of needs. Any unfinished work brought home, letters not written or schoolwork not done can be caught up on here.
Two bedrooms complete the interior floor plan. Bedroom number two has a vaulted ceiling and each has ample closet space. A full bath is between them. Close by is a very large utility room with a deep sink, linen storage and a fold down ironing board. It is accessible to the garage, which features leeway for a shop and/or storage area, central vacuum and pull down stairs to the attic.
For a study kit of the PLACER (334-020), send $9.00, to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307-LP60, Eugene, OR 97402 (Be sure to specify plan name & number). For a collection of plan books featuring Landmark's most popular home plans, send $20 to Landmark.

Vikes exhibition tilt nears as pre-season begins

STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

The grass was thick and the pre-season hitting hard as Lake County Vikings kicked off the 1994 season with a full scrimmage Saturday morning.

For some 90 minutes, the quiet of a Round Lake neighborhood was peppered with the shrill of a coach's whistle or the banter of an optimistic pre-season as summer slowly gives way to the fall sport of semi-pro football.

"I think we will pass a lot. We have three good quarterbacks," Wes Quist, veteran signal caller, said.

Chris Hare and Todd Brown are also vying for playing time.

Several of the players were making their debut as potential Viking standouts a week before the pre-season opener with Chicago Thunder. That game is set for 4 p.m. July 30 at Dugdale Field in Waukegan.

And some of the newcomers were out of a Milwaukee Express team which is now defunct.

"I do it for the love of the game," defensive back Gary Owens said. "We wanted to play people like Racine."

For Kevin Lies, a second year defensive tackle, semi-pro football was a chance to experience winning. He suffered through a winless senior season in 1993 at Grayslake High.

"This is a new system and we have to get used to it - but it pumps me up," he said.

The director of the new system, Head Coach Kurt Kampendahl, was pleased with the workout.

"We had a real good effort. We saw a lot of new faces. It is hard to pinpoint who will make the final roster - it is too early yet, but I was pleased. This was our best practice," he said.

He said the defense made more strides this day.

Reggie "Flee" Johnson is looking forward to his new role as offensive coordinator.

"We need to work on getting our timing down. I think we will surprise a lot of teams," Johnson, a former wide receiver, said.

The Vikings, who compete in the Midwest Football League, will be using the San Francisco 49ers style of offense.

"I will pass the ball a lot, but you have to get your timing down," he said.

Young Chiefs win second at Genoa tournament

STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Lake County Chiefs baseball teams found some bright stars of the future as the 11-and-under team claimed second at Genoa City.

The team reached the title game by downing Lakeland 6-0. Tyler Moore of Crystal Lake and Scott Collins of Lake Forest combined for the shutout. Collins helped his own cause in a big way with 4 hits. Brett Hall and Greg Mikkrut of Lake Forest and Joe Celia of Round Lake Beach had 3 hits and Mike Walczak added his third tourney home run.

Unfortunately, the Chiefs ran into some tough pitching and spectacular plays on defense and lost 7-2 to the 12-and under Elkhorn Mets.

"Moore is a real dyno. He is only 10-years-old, but he has a very strong arm," Chiefs Manager Art Mansavage said.

In the early rounds, the Chiefs downed the Elkhorn Cards 11-1. Moore and Brady Polowy of Buffalo Grove held Elkhorn to only 4 hits. Polowy was a hitting star, with 3-for-3 with a home run and 3 RBIs.

The Chiefs downed Lakeland

5-3. Sean Rotolo of Lake Forest got the win and Chuck Radaha of Round Lake Beach drove in 2 runs and scored another. Ryan Seaberg scored the go-ahead run and amid a game-saving play at second base to end a Lakeland sixth-inning threat.

The Chiefs then fell to Elkhorn Mets 8-2, but shutout Lakeland.

The team will be in a Summerfest tourney in Racine with teams from all over Illinois and Wisconsin.

The Chiefs 12-and-under team settled for fifth place as it prepares for national competition Aug. 6 in Burnsville, Minn.

"Sometimes losing is not so bad - it helps the attitude going into nationals," Manager Mansavage said.

The 12's beat Milwaukee Southside 5-0. Dustin Dobslaf of Deerfield fired a no-hitter with 4 strikeouts and 2 innings with 5 strikeouts in 2 innings. Mac Mansavage was 1-for-3 with an RBI, Steve Ruh of Riverwoods 3-for-4 with a double and Dobslaf got the other RBI.

The Chiefs fell in the second game to Northwest Travelers, 4-3, despite out-hitting the foes 8-4.

Mike Bruszer of Deerfield double, with Ruh, Josh Boock, Mike Crane of Lake Zurich, Matt Rollins of Chicago and Jason Baker of Libertyville all contributing hits. Bruszer and Mansavage, of Deerfield, shared pitching duties.

In the third game, the Chiefs demolished the Waukesha Blazers 9-1. Dan Renauer went the distance and gained the win. He fanned 5 batters.

Crane had 2 hits, Mansavage 3

Chiefs take 2nd in tournament

The 11-year-old Lake County Chiefs took 2nd place in the Gateway to the Stars Tournament in Genoa City, Wis., last weekend.

On Saturday, the Chiefs defeated the Elkhorn Cards 11-1. Tyler Moore of Crystal Lake and Brady Polowy of Buffalo Grove held Elkhorn to only four hits.

Polowy was also a hitting star going 3-3 with a home run and three RBIs. Mike Walczak collected five RBIs with two fence clearing home runs.

The Chiefs then beat Lakeland 5-3. Sean Rotolo of Lake Forest got the win and Chuck Radaha of Round Lake Beach drove in two runs and scored another to lead hits and Boock 2 hits for the Chiefs.

Also pitching in were: John Glatt, Renauer and Rollins had one hit each.

Errors cost the Chiefs in a 6-5 loss to Elmhurst.

Bruszer had a solo home run, Mansavage had 2 hits, Glatt had 2 hits, as did Austin Turner.

The Chiefs are seeking any help with their upcoming Minnesota trip - a 24-passenger bus the Chief batters.

Ryan Seaberg scored the go ahead run and made a game saving play at second base to end Lakeland's bases-loaded threat at the bottom of the sixth.

On Sunday, the Chiefs lost to the Elkhorn Mets 8-2, but they bounced back to get into the championship game by beating Lakeland again 6-0. Moore and Scott Collins of Lake Forest combined for the shutout. Collins had four hits. Brett Hall of Lake Forest, Greg Mikkrut of Lake Forest and Joe Celia of Round Lake Beach each had three hits and Walczak added his third home run of the tournament.

They ran into tough pitching and some spectacular plays and lost the championship game 7-2 to the 12-year-old Elkhorn Mets. The 11-year-old Chiefs begin the City Championship at Thilens Stadium this week.

Equestrians to compete at Tempel Farms

World Cup mania is behind us, but the international sports in Illinois continue with the Pedigree® North American Young Rider Championships, Aug. 16 through 21 at Tempel Farms in Wadsworth.

Every region of the United States will send teams of competitors, from California (their zone five team ruled the show jumping last year) to the eastern states (the winner of the three-day event—the equestrian triathlon—hailed all the way from North Carolina). The mid-west always makes a strong showing of its own (the Midwest team was gold in dressage in '93). See EQUESTRIANS page C23

Three new winners take first features at Wilmot

MICHAEL H. BABICZ

Correspondent

Joe Kristan of Beach Park, Todd Hepfner of Sussex, Wis., and Steve Reidel Jr. of Chicago, each won their first features of the season in the sprint, modified and mini-sprint divisions, respectively to highlight Body Craft of Antioch Night at Toft Auto Racing's Wilmot Speedway on July 16.

Kristan and Hepfner each became the ninth different main winners in the Budweiser Racing Series for their class, while Reidel became the second different mini-sprint victor.

The 1988 Wilmot Open

Champion, Kristan, shot in front in his J&J Powercoating/ Hertz-Penske/Tede's Corkscrew Lounge sprinter and never looked back. Winding his way through lapped traffic, Kristan scored his first feature win in three years in the non-stop 25-lapper.

"This is a great win for us because I'm with a new car owner, Ted Holden, and I have to thank him for the ride, and a new team which has worked really hard," said Kristan, who was joined in victory lane by his enthusiastic team. "The car was set up great, and I was able to work the bottom real well."

In the 20-lap modified main, second year competitor Hepfner put his Wegener Automotive/Hepfner & Associates mount into the lead at the drop of the double-greens and never relinquished top spot in the non-stop event.

Hepfner kept Jimmy Uttech behind him despite the two briefly getting side by side. Hepfner came home the winner by less than one car length.

"The car ran well, but I think we could've run a different gear because it seemed to bog down a little in the corner," said Hepfner of his first career feature win. "I have to thank my parents and my crew for all of their support. I still can't quite believe it."

The 15-lap mini-sprint feature was the only main interrupted as it saw one red flag and three cautions. Eric Klemme took the lead ahead of the 22-car field.

A stall on lap seven and spins on laps 12 and 13 kept slowing the progress. Each time Klemme was still in the lead, but Reidel was getting closer.

Although Klemme was at the point for 13 circuits, it was Reidel leading the final two including the all important checkered flag.

"It was a good, clean race," said Reidel, who started half-way back in the field in 11th. "I had tried every which way to get around Eric, so I decided to go for the bonzai move in turn three and it worked. We've been struggling and starting so far back I didn't know if I'd have a chance. The car ran super and it's great to get the win."

Two new track records were set. The 5-lap Biene Excavating Dash was won by Todd Daun in a new mark of 1:14.02, nipping the old mark of 1:14.77 set by Dick Colburn on April 23.

The 12-lap modified "B" Main Last Chance Qualifier won by Fred Zack was in a time of 3:25.94, breaking the five-year-old mark of 3:29.43 set by Jon Behncke of Milwaukee, Wis., on July 22, 1989.

Ditka bowls for Leukemia Aug. 6

Mike Ditka will serve as honorary chairman of the second annual Joe Marconi Memorial Pro-Am Bowling Tournament "Strikes Against Leukemia," Aug. 6 at Brunswick Deer Park Lanes in Lake Zurich. Registration starts at 11:30 a.m. and the event begins at noon.

Joe Marconi was on the '63 Championship Chicago Bears along with teammate and friend, Mike Ditka. Marconi passed away from leukemia in 1992; with the help of his wife, Jan, the Foundation organized a fund raiser in his memory.

Leukemia is a malignant condition in which white blood cells grow beyond the needs of the body, eventually interfering with the function of vital organs, and if uncontrolled, causing death. It is the most common cause of death among young people, second only to accidents.

Participants can bowl with 20 professional bowlers, former Bears Bob Parsons and Ted Karras and other alumni plus celebrity sports casters including Mike North and Dave Baum (WSCR, The Score Radio), Norm Van Lier (Sportschannel and WMVP), Steve Kashul (Sportschannel), Peggy Kusinski (CLTV) and Dan Pompei (Chicago Sun-Times).

The highest pledge earner can win two tickets to anywhere in the U.S. or Mexico from American West Airlines. Second place prize is a weekend for two at the Marriott Lincolnshire Resort and third place winner receives Bears tickets and brunch.

Entry fees are $100 per four-member team; $30 for adults and $10 for children under 12. Registration deadline is Friday, July 29. All proceeds benefit the Leukemia Research Foundation.

Sponsors include Brunswick Recreation Centers, Brunswick Deer Park Lanes, America West Airlines, Lakeland Newspapers and Monarch Technical Services.

To register or for more information call the Leukemia Research Foundation at 480-1177.

Canada, Mexico, Bermuda, Sweden and Japan will send individuals and teams. Going along with all these kids are horses of the finest quality to be seen anywhere. Coaches, too, are often well-known faces from the professional horse world.

From 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., the rolling, open fields of Tempel Farms will be teeming with activity as preliminary competition begins on Wednesday, Aug. 17, with dressage in the morning and preliminary jumping in the afternoon.

On Thursday and Friday, Aug. 18 and 19, the midwest defends its gold medal in team dressage championships, beginning at 1 p.m. in arena one.

Aug. 20, Saturday, spectators should plan to get there early (8 a.m.) and bring a picnic to watch the exciting three-day event cross-country competition. The cross-country is a galloping, leaping test of a horse and rider's physical ability and mental toughness, a throwback to the sport's military origins.

The final day, Sunday, Aug. 21, will see the best of the best in all three Olympic disciplines as the individual championships in three-day, dressage and jumping are decided in separate competitions during the day.

I'LL BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW...

Brought To You By MICHAEL FOHRMAN OF FOHRMAN DODGE

Oddly enough, a big league baseball player once actually caught his own home run!... How's this possible?... It happened to Dixie Walker one day in 1946 at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn... Dixie hit a home run into the screen above the right-field fence... The ball stuck there for a homer... At the end of the inning, Walker went out to play his position in right field, and as he neared the fence the ball suddenly started to drop out of the screen... Walker ran over, made the catch, and became the only man in history who ever caught his own home run!

Believe it or not, a complete 9-inning big league baseball game was once played in 51 minutes!... It was a game between the Giants and Phils in 1919.

Has any rookie ever been able to win the batting championship in big league baseball?... It's happened only ONCE in history... The only rookie to lead a major league in batting at the end of any season was Tony Oliva, who won the American League batting title in 1964.

I bet you didn't know... For over 14 years, Fohrman Dodge has been arranging purchase plans for military personnel regardless of pay grade or credit history.
